

North Vietnam Raids Marked By Elaborate Care

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources said today that better than 95 per cent of U.S. bombing raids on North Vietnam since April have been against targets outside a 20,000-square mile zone that includes Hanoi.

No figures were given, however, for an adjacent zone which includes territory near the capital city.

Responding to recent criticism about air raids near Hanoi, these sources provided figures showing that American planes have staged about 100,000 sorties — attacks by one plane against one target — since April.

The daily sortie rate over North Vietnam is kept secret to prevent the enemy from knowing how many U.S. aircraft are sent aloft on bombing missions. Military communiques from Saigon instead record the tempo of the air war in terms of missions, which usually mean three to five aircraft flying one or more sorties.

Since April, sources said, the United States has sent 30,000 flights — roughly one-third of its missions — to raid supply lines and storage areas hundreds of miles south of Hanoi.

Specifically, this is in what military planners refer to as "Route Package One," a roughly 4,000-square-mile area of North Vietnam just above the former demilitarized zone separating the two Vietnams.

By contrast, said sources, there have been only slightly more than 3,500 raids in that period on "Route Package Five," an area five times as large encompassing all of the city of Hanoi and northwest North Vietnam.

North Vietnam's leg-like southerly extension is sliced up into four route packages numbered one through four in stair-step fashion — the fourth stopping short of Hanoi's southern city limits and along 21 degrees latitude.

Second Burned Airmen Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An Air Force official, commenting on an oxygen-fed fire inside a simulated space cabin that killed two airmen, says: "We don't know how or why it happened."

The explosion Tuesday was the second fatal oxygen accident in the nation's space program in five days. Last Friday, the three Apollo 1 astronauts were killed at Cape Kennedy in a fire in their space capsule.

Both the Apollo 1 spacecraft and the simulator were filled with pure oxygen at the time.

The Air Force official, Col. James B. Nuttall, head of the Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine, said the school has had "over 500 exposures (to pure oxygen) with no difficulty at all."

He said that an accident investigation board has started gathering data.

Killed in the accident at Brooks Air Force Base here were Airman 2C William F. Bartley Jr., 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bartley, Indianapolis, Ind., and Airman 3C Richard G. Harmon, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon F. Harmon, Auburn, N.Y.

Two hours before the tragedy Bartley's mother had mailed a letter to her son, a technician at the school, telling him that she was worried about him because of the Apollo 1 fire.

The victims were performing routine car and testing of some experimental rabbits inside the School of Aerospace Medicine cabin, actually a green-colored steel tank.

Air Force officials said the simulator was filled with pure oxygen, which can turn a spark into an inferno, in a planned 60-day experiment to determine the atmosphere's long-range effect on the blood of 16 rabbits confined in the cabin. Pressure in the cabin was kept at seven pounds per square inch, about half normal sea-level pressure.

Air Force Capt. Richard D. Sinclair, an aviation physiologist in charge of the experiment, said first indications of the tragedy came when a technician communicating with the airmen by a "talk-a-phone" heard "a sudden muffled sound inside the chamber" and then the sound of running feet.

The technician saw flames through a portal and immediately tripped a "dump lever," bringing the cabin pressure to sea level in 13 seconds and diluting the oxygen with outside air.

Bartley died within an hour. Harmon died almost eight hours later in an Army hospital.

The interior of the chamber was charred and blackened. The 16 rabbits, bundles of charred fuzz, littered the floor. Some equipment was burned beyond recognition.

Auto Makers Will Study New Safety Standards

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto makers plan to study in detail the federal government's softened car safety standards.

The Commerce Department withdrew Tuesday three of the original 23 standards, which had drawn strong protests from the auto makers when they were announced last Dec. 3. They are the first federal standards.

In a compromise move, the other original 20 standards were toned down, and the industry was given an extra four months in which to put them on 1968 model cars. The original deadline, next Sept. 1, was extended to next Jan. 1.

Withdrawn for further study were two proposed standards dealing with tires and rims and one requiring headrests to protect riders from whiplash injury.

The automotive Big Three — Ford Motor Co., General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. — said they would reserve comment until the revisions could be thoroughly studied.

Board Chairman Roy Chapin of American Motors Corp. declined comment.

Volkswagen, most successful foreign challenger in the U.S. auto market, appeared optimistic.

American Motors and Ford were outspoken in criticism of the original standards last December. AMC said the regulations might force the financially troubled firm out of business.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford, said that some of his production lines might have to close if the federal government stuck to its original standards.

The companies and automobile manufacturers association sent mounds of data to Dr. William Haddon, national traffic safety administrator, in support of their claims that the standards were too drastic. They pleaded for time to test the proposed safety ideas.

Haddon said many points made by the domestic and foreign industries were reasonable, well-documented and accepted by his department. But he said his experts did not go along with all industry suggestions.

Auto critic Ralph Nader, whose book "Unsafe at Any Speed," set off the safety furor, called the standards weak.

Nader said Haddon had given in to the auto industry and that the industry had failed to detail its objections sufficiently. Earlier, Nader had termed the original 23 proposals the minimum that should be required.

The standards would require such safety devices as energy-absorbing steering systems, seat belts for all occupants, improved laminated windshields, windshield defrosters and defogging devices, hydraulic brake hoses to reduce the likelihood of leakage, special door latches, rupture-proof fuel tanks and impact protection for occupants of the car.

Thompson Enters Race For Mayor

E. TOMMY THOMPSON

E. Tommy Thompson, 127 Pinckney St., is a Democratic candidate for mayor of Circleville.

Thompson filed his petition of candidacy today with the Pickaway County Board of Elections.

A native of Chillicothe, Thompson has lived in Circleville since 1936. He has been in the restaurant business for 31 years and is currently manager of the Burger Chef on W. Main St.

Thompson at one time was a local broadcaster for a Chillicothe-based radio station. A veteran of World War II, he is a member of the American Legion and a member of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce.

THOMPSON'S candidacy for mayor marks his first entry into politics.

Thompson is the third Democrat to file a petition. Others seeking the Democratic nomination are Harold Clifton and Richard Gearhart.

Republican candidates are Dr. Robert G. Smith and Frank Barnhill.

Incumbent Mayor Ben Gordon has announced he will not be a candidate.

2 U.S. Planes Shot Down Near Laos

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Communist ground fire hit two out of three U.S. planes flying just above the treetops along the Laotian border Tuesday to defoliate jungles of the Ho Chi Minh infiltration trail.

One of the twin-engine C123 Providers was shot down and the five crewmen were killed, a military spokesman in Da Nang reported. The second plane hit made a successful emergency landing at Khe Sanh, 7 miles east of the Laotian frontier and just south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

Heavy fog and cloud cover over North Vietnam limited U.S. planes to 39 missions against the north Tuesday, the smallest number of raids since Nov. 25, when 29 missions were flown.

Ground fighting continued on a small scale over much of South Vietnam, although South Vietnamese headquarters reported that government troops killed 51 Viet Cong in a furious 20-minute engagement in the Mekong Delta.

U.S. Marines ended the six-month-old Operation Prairie just south of the demilitarized zone but immediately launched Operation Prairie 2 with the same troops in the same place. The Marines reported killing 1,397 Communist troops in fighting around "The Rockpile" and said their own casualties were moderate for the operation which started Aug. 3.

Bond Issue For Primary Seems Dead

GOP Would Need 4 Democrat Votes To Win Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican plans to place bond issue and reapportionment proposals on May 2 primary ballots are dead unless they can round up four House Democrats to join a maverick senator from Warren.

Sen. Bishop Kilpatrick D-32 Trumbull departed from Democratic ranks Tuesday night but the minority still had the strength to block a vote on a bill setting up statewide primaries to consider the proposals.

The vote on a GOP motion to suspend constitution rules and bring the bill up for immediate consideration lost by 24-9 with 25 affirmative votes needed. The measure faced a deadline of Tuesday midnight since 90 days are required for bills to become law and the election was scheduled for 99 days from Tuesday.

Republicans began planning new strategy that still could make the election possible after a busy legislative day that ended in heated floor debate and charges of "railroading" and "obstructionism."

Sen. Robin T. Turner R-14 Marion called for more testimony on the reapportionment resolution today and said it might be reported out of his elections committee. It would create legislative districts for use until after the 1970 federal census.

New measures would outlaw sale of the controversial drug LSD except for research, reduce the work week of policemen from 48 to 40 hours, provide for five-year reauthorized license plates, and speed the vote count in appropriate years for President, vice president, governor, (Continued on Page 5)

Church of Satan Rites Join Pair in Unholiness

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Asking the blessings of Satan, a couple was married Tuesday night by a lion-tamer-turned-sorcerer who pronounced the match "conceived in hell."

Throughout the dark rite, a 500-pound lion on the back porch grumbled throatily and bashed the bars of his cage with his paws.

The bride was black-gowned Judith Case, 26, graduate of Goucher College and daughter of Edward Haile Case, former member of the New York Power Authority.

The bridegroom was John Raymond, 35, who described himself as "a member of society."

Anton Scandir LaVey wore devil horns while performing his first wedding in the Victorian living room of his black-walled Satanist church. About 30 disciples of the self-styled priest of the Prince of Darkness witnessed the wedding, plus an equal number of reporters.

As the sorcerer prepared for the ceremony, a nude girl with long flowing red hair reclined on a purple velvet robe atop a mantlepiece. That was to symbolize earthly pleasure, LaVey said.

Maoist Forces Claim 5th City

TOKYO (AP) — Wall posters in Peking claimed today that Mao Tse-tung's forces have routed opposition troops in turbulent Sinkiang Province, site of Red China's nuclear weapons tests, and have captured a fifth major city in another part of Red China.

The Peking correspondent for Japan's Kyodo News Service reported the posters said Mao's supporters were "in full control of the provincial capital of Urumchi and Shihhotze," cities where Mao's foes had been reported putting up successful resistance to the Maoists' attempts to take control of Sinkiang.

Kyodo said the wall poster reports were based on telephone dispatches Jan. 31 from pro-Maoists in Urumchi to pro-Mao Red Guards in Peking.

They said that anti-Maoists had "fled into nearby mountains taking large quantities of arms and ammunition, apparently to wage guerrilla warfare."

Earlier reports today said the Maoists were suing for peace in Sinkiang.

Peking radio said Mao's supporters seized control on Jan. 25 of the provincial government and Communist party offices in Kwei-yang, capital of Kweichow Province in southern China and an American air base in World War II.

The Maoists now claim control of five major cities, the others being Peking, the northeast port of Tsingtao on the Yellow Sea, the big port of Shanghai, and Taiyung, capital of Shansi Province adjacent to Peking. But broadcasts admitted trouble in two of the cities.

A Chinese-language broadcast said that more than a week "since power was seized in Tsingtao, a handful of persons in authority are continuously attempting to counterattack."

The official New China News Agency reported continued resistance in Shanghai.

A wall poster said Premier Chou En-lai had ordered fighting stopped in Sinkiang Province, bordering on the Soviet Union, and had offered to confer with Gen. Wang En-mao, the anti-Mao military commander of the vast, sparsely populated region in northeast China.

China's nuclear test grounds are situated in the Sinkiang city of Lop Nor, and Chou's peace efforts may be aimed at avering seizure of the installation. The Hong Kong Star said in an unconfirmed report Tuesday that Wang had threatened to seize the Lop Nor base if Maoists tried to take over the provincial government.

Japanese correspondents said Wang arrived in Peking Dec. 19 to discuss matters relating to Sinkiang's borders with the Soviet Union, along which the Soviets have been reported concentrating troops. A refugee leader from Sinkiang now living in Turkey said Monday that the Russians have trained a guerrilla army of 60,000 refugees from the province, and said the guerrilla force has made more than 5,000 raids into Sinkiang in the past year.

Mao was reported earlier to have ordered the army to move against his enemies in Sinkiang. But it was reported that seven of the eight army divisions there refused to obey him.

Sen. Dirksen Holds Key To Treaty

At Present Time He Is Opposed To Consular Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen—who has a history of making or breaking some Johnson administration measures—appears now to hold the key to the President's U.S.-Soviet consular treaty.

Right now, he is against it. The pact, which sponsors say is aimed at relaxing East-West tensions and opening the way for the end of the cold war, needs two-thirds approval of those voting on ratification.

This parallels the situation last year in which Dirksen, unlike in 1964, refused to give the administration the Republican votes required to break a filibuster and pass a civil rights bill.

Some of the same Republicans who wanted a civil rights bill in 1966 are seeking ratification of the treaty in spite of what they call "hysterical opposition" to it. But when the countdown comes in a future GOP caucus Dirksen is likely to command a majority for his views.

The Illinois senator reported there was "quite a rowdy-dow" over the treaty at a closed meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee Tuesday. He said differing views were voiced by members but there was no rancor.

He said he would find it "very (Continued on Page 2)

Yanks' Role Compared to French Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomat-historian Edwin O. Reischauer says Ho Chi Minh could have led all Vietnam without menacing U.S. interests if U.S. policy errors had not locked this country in a Vietnam war.

The war should have been avoided, said the former U.S. ambassador to Japan, but the United States cannot now quit because it is in a narrow passage "and can't walk backwards."

Reischauer, now a State Department adviser and Harvard University historian, cited in an interview what he called three major policy errors of the past two decades which led to the present Vietnam situation.

"We just stumbled sort of bit by bit into supporting French colonialism" beginning in 1945.

"The United States stepped 'into the unsound situation the French left behind them' after their defeat by the Viet Minh at Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

"The United States increased its troop commitment in 1961 from 800 advisers to 17,000. 'This increased the stakes. It would have been a lot less damaging if we had taken our losses and pulled out then.'"

Reischauer said there were other mistakes, too — decisions which at the time they were made seemed relatively unimportant.

"I can't give you a year-by-year or a step-by-step analysis," he said.

Reischauer's recommendation: A prudent de-escalation of the war, perhaps with a halt in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. If the combat can be eased, he said, the war may gradually dwindle without formal peace negotiations — a prospect he considers slim.

"The countries that are close to Vietnam would be tremendously worried if we were to pull out," Reischauer said. "Getting out is not as easy as getting in."

For the years ahead, Reischauer sounded this appeal: "Let us not do this again. Let us at least think 12 years ahead and not get into new commitments and new situations of this kind."

Two decades ago, Reischauer said, even a Communist Vietnam would have fiercely maintained its independence. A government headed by Ho Chi Minh, now president of North Vietnam, probably would have taken an independent course similar to that of Yugoslavia in (Continued on Page 2)

At Present Time He Is Opposed To Consular Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen—who has a history of making or breaking some Johnson administration measures—appears now to hold the key to the President's U.S.-Soviet consular treaty.

Right now, he is against it. The pact, which sponsors say is aimed at relaxing East-West tensions and opening the way for the end of the cold war, needs two-thirds approval of those voting on ratification.

This parallels the situation last year in which Dirksen, unlike in 1964, refused to give the administration the Republican votes required to break a filibuster and pass a civil rights bill.

Some of the same Republicans who wanted a civil rights bill in 1966 are seeking ratification of the treaty in spite of what they call "hysterical opposition" to it. But when the countdown comes in a future GOP caucus Dirksen is likely to command a majority for his views.

The Illinois senator reported there was "quite a rowdy-dow" over the treaty at a closed meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee Tuesday. He said differing views were voiced by members but there was no rancor.

He said he would find it "very (Continued on Page 2)

Cuban Boys Must Stay on Farm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The head of the Cuban Workers Confederation says that more than 65,000 Cuban youths are now working on the farms.

A Havana broadcast, monitored here, quoted Miguel Martin as saying that "not one Cuban youth must serve in a bureaucratic post in Cuba."

"Since agriculture is the essential key of our economy, our youths must be at the vanguard of such a movement," Martin was quoted as saying.

Yanks' Role Compared to French Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomat-historian Edwin O. Reischauer says Ho Chi Minh could have led all Vietnam without menacing U.S. interests if U.S. policy errors had not locked this country in a Vietnam war.

The war should have been avoided, said the former U.S. ambassador to Japan, but the United States cannot now quit because it is in a narrow passage "and can't walk backwards."

Reischauer, now a State Department adviser and Harvard University historian, cited in an interview what he called three major policy errors of the past two decades which led to the present Vietnam situation.

"We just stumbled sort of bit by bit into supporting French colonialism" beginning in 1945.

"The United States stepped 'into the unsound situation the French left behind them' after their defeat by the Viet Minh at Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

"The United States increased its troop commitment in 1961 from 800 advisers to 17,000. 'This increased the stakes. It would have been a lot less damaging if we had taken our losses and pulled out then.'"

Reischauer said there were other mistakes, too — decisions which at the time they were made seemed relatively unimportant.

"I can't give you a year-by-year or a step-by-step analysis," he said.

Reischauer's recommendation: A prudent de-escalation of the war, perhaps with a halt in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. If the combat can be eased, he said, the war may gradually dwindle without formal peace negotiations — a prospect he considers slim.

"The countries that are close to Vietnam would be tremendously worried if we were to pull out," Reischauer said. "Getting out is not as easy as getting in."

For the years ahead, Reischauer sounded this appeal: "Let us not do this again. Let us at least think 12 years ahead and not get into new commitments and new situations of this kind."

Two decades ago, Reischauer said, even a Communist Vietnam would have fiercely maintained its independence. A government headed by Ho Chi Minh, now president of North Vietnam, probably would have taken an independent course similar to that of Yugoslavia in (Continued on Page 2)

Europe though perhaps more extreme, he said.

In any event, he suggested, such a government would not today be an enemy of the United States.

"It wouldn't have been a serious menace to us to have had Ho Chi Minh there for the past 20 years," Reischauer said.

Pacing as he talked following a day-long session before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday, Reischauer expanded on his list of mistakes that marked American policy.

When France sought in 1945 to reassert her control over what was then Indochina, he said, "many of us felt that we should not back the revival of French colonialism in Asia."

Reischauer said the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt held that opinion. "We allowed ourselves to stumble into a course of support," Reischauer said.

"Step by step we became the major supplier of the French colonial war in Vietnam," Reischauer said. It was a war against Ho Chi Minh and his Viet Minh army in what is now North Vietnam.

Reischauer said that in supporting the French, American policymakers apparently were guided by the impact of the decision in Europe, not by the future of Asia.

He said there were few Asian affairs experts in the State Department, and they were not in the top echelon.

Reischauer was among them. "I had the feeling this was wrong," he said. But he said nobody listened to him in those days.

Reischauer said the 1954 Geneva agreement which partitioned Vietnam after the French defeat was a face-saving move for the French.

He said it might have been better had the United States signed that pact, but in any event, its provision for elections in 1956 "was completely unsound."

At that point, the United States sponsored Ngo Dinh Diem as president of South Vietnam, and, in Reischauer's view, inherited the dilemma left by the French.

Although Reischauer lists the 1961 troop buildup as a mistake, he said the more massive troop expansion in 1965 could be one American step which may one day prove to have been sound.

At the time of the latter buildup and concurrent switch from a U.S. advisory capacity to a combatant role, said Reischauer, "our choices were narrowing."

Reischauer also was critical of American bombing of North Vietnam. Before the committee, he termed it a "psychological blunder."

"We started it with promises that it would achieve certain results that were not achieved," he said later. "It has produced a lot of political losses around the world."

Furthermore, he said, it is making North Vietnam more intransigent about possible peace talks. "This is not the way to the negotiating table," he said.

Roger Blough Opposes LBJ On Surtax

NEW YORK (AP) — Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel Corp. says President Johnson's proposed 6 per cent surtax could have an adverse effect on the economy and the steel industry.

Blough's comments came Tuesday as he reported lower 1966 earnings for the nation's largest steel producer than in 1965.

He said U. S. Steel had profit of $249 million, or $4.60 a share, last year compared with $275.57 million, or $4.62 a share, in the previous year. The 1966 earnings per share includes about 17 cents from the exchange of preferred stock for some bonds.

Fourth-quarter earnings rose to $59.85 million or $1.11 a share from $49.03 million, or 78 cents a share, in the last quarter of 1965.

U.S. Steel maintained its 60-cents dividend which was increased 10 cents at the end of the third quarter of 1966.

Blough told newsmen the economy shows signs of leveling off and, he said, third-quarter 1966 corporate profits dipped below those of the first two quarters.

"If you add to those factors a tax increase, you drain more money out of the economy and it could have an adverse effect," Blough said.

He said nondefense spending should be trimmed first before a tax increase is imposed. Blough said some steel executives are concerned about steel imports, which he estimated at 11 million tons last year.

Forecast on Atom Plant Electric Power Tripled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, reporting record-breaking activity in the nuclear power field in 1966, forecast today that atomic power plants would be furnishing enough electricity by 1972 to meet the needs of more than 27 million Americans.

That's almost triple the estimate for that approximate period made last June — and more than 14 times the electric power capabilities of the 14 nuclear power plants presently operating or operable in the United States.

The Atomic Energy commission made the prediction in its annual report to Congress. The report said the past year — and especially the past six months — saw an upsurge in nuclear power planning by private industry that exceeded "the most optimistic forecasts."

The commission said 1966 marked the first time atomic energy took the lead over conventional sources of electric power — such as coal and oil — in private industry's future planning. The AEC declared 55 per cent of the new steam-electric generating capacity announced by U.S. utilities during 1966 was for nuclear power plants.

The report also noted that existing plants have an operating capacity of 1.88 million kilowatts, and nine others under construction prior to last year have capabilities totaling 4.23 million kilowatts.

Chinese Revolution Seems Like Mad Peking Opera

TOKYO (AP)—What is happening in China today seems like the controlled madness of the Peking Opera: acrobats tumble, fierce generals fall before shrill-voiced heroines; drums roll and cymba clang.

But the audience pays little attention to that part of the opera. It is only when the rival emperors come on stage that the spectators stop gossiping and pay attention.

The "emperors" vying for applause of the crowds in China today are Mao Tse-tung and President Liu Shao-chi. The "heroines" are Mao's acid-tongued wife, former actress Chiang Ching, and Liu's wife, Wang Kuang-mei, accused by Mrs. Mao of being dissolute and luxury-loving.

Red China's two First Families—Mao is chief of the Communist party—are entwined in a struggle for power. Mao wants to recover the authority he lost in 1958 when Liu succeeded him as president. Liu is resisting.

Mao says China's Communist revolution has gone astray. He blames Liu for taking the soft road of Soviet "revisionism," thinking less of communism than of capitalism.

Since August, Mao has hammered at Liu's heavily entrenched positions with words and abuse scrawled across millions of wall newspapers in Peking or put into the mouths of fanatic Red Guards.

The words have turned to blows. Yet there is the absence from the Peking scene of the principals in this strange drama.

Since last November — when he made his ninth and final 1966 appearance before the Peking multitude — Mao has not been seen in public. Nor has his chosen heir-apparent, Defense Minister Lin Biao.

These absences—and the lack of information about the whereabouts of Liu Shao-chi—give the Peking developments of recent weeks an air of intermission, as though a shadow play were being performed between the acts of the opera.

The shadow puppets are held in the younger and perhaps firmer hands of Chiang Ching and purge chairman Chen Po-ta. Under their manipulations, the villains have taken on a dimension larger than life.

Reportedly driven out of Peking in November 1965, Mao found refuge in Shanghai. From there he plotted his comeback, returned to the capital last July, once it had been seized by his own men. His big name foes were in Peking and could not escape.

He is trying to stage city coups in Shanghai, Nanking, Canton, Shenyang — Mukden, Harbin, Tientsin, Hankow and other big centers. But most of these cities are in the hands of Liu appointees.

Mao's strategy is to use the army. But in many areas, including Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang, the atom bomb testing site, the army's loyalty to him is not 100 per cent sure.

Like the traditional Peking Opera, what exists in China today is calculated disorder.

New Minimum Wage Law Now in Effect

Government Set For Torrent Of Questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal minimum wage went up to $1.40 an hour today as government officials braced for a flood of inquiries and labor leaders warned they will pounce on any violators.

The $1.40 applies to 32.3 million workers covered by the old $1.25 minimum, while 8 million more employees are brought under the law for the first time, starting at a $1 per hour minimum.

Altogether, nearly two million companies are covered by the law.

However, U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Carswell issued in Tallahassee, Fla., Tuesday night two 10-day temporary restraining orders prohibiting the Labor Department from enforcing the law in Florida.

The state sought the orders, contending the law is an invasion of state's rights. Florida also contends the new minimum wage, affecting some state employees, threatens to unsettle its budget.

The government estimates only about 4.7 million workers will get pay increases under the law since most of those covered already earn more than the minimum.

"We are pulling our investigators into the field offices to answer the phones," said Clarence T. Lundquist, Labor Department wage and hour administrator, noting the rising tide of queries from workers and employers.

"The new increases in the minimum wage will further tempt chiselers," said AFL-CIO President George Meany in asking President Johnson to strengthen enforcement.

Meany said the 13.5-million-member labor federation will set up its own nationwide enforcement machinery to police the law and help both union members and nonmembers press for federal action against cheaters.

Although the law — the Fair Labor Standards Act — provides fines up to $10,000 for willful violations and possible jail terms for a second offense, Lundquist said most cases are settled without court action.

"One of our problems is in getting employers to feel that we can be talked to," Lundquist said.

Some business groups have expressed fear of harassment by federal investigators and costly court litigation for accidental violations.

"Certainly inadvertent violations can be corrected by payment of back wages and assurances of future compliance," Lundquist said.

Meany said Lundquist's 1,000 investigators never have been enough to enforce the law and that "last year, some 430,000 workers were underpaid a total of $90 million by employers who flouted the Fair Labor Standards Act—and these figures cover only those who were discovered. Only about half the violators were caught."

Johnson's new budget provides for more investigators, but new amendments to the law boost the number of workers covered by nearly 30 per cent and the number of firms almost 60 per cent.

ite theory of a permanent revolution," Mao said in 1928.

By continuous development, Mao meant China's progress through periods of private land ownership, state capitalism, cooperatives, communes and finally into communism itself.

He has run head-on into Liu Shao-chi because he believes the president has pulled socialism into the wings just as the last act of pure communism was about to begin.

Former City Resident Has Unusual Role in Vietnam

Paul Turner, 43, former Circleville resident and graduate of the local high school, is presently attached to the 7th Air Force, Strategic Air Command, based at Binh Thuy and Rach Gia, Vietnam.

Turner is considered by the Air Force to be an integral part of the "Pony Express" program. He serves the role as a civilian.

The main effort of the "Pony Express" is to entice the Viet Cong to consider the American side of the war encourage them to reevaluate the propaganda that is constantly fed to the Communist troops in the line. Air Force spokesmen said it is vital that the Viet Cong learn the truth about their greatest fear, capture by the United Nations Armed Forces.

MANY Communist personnel sincerely believe that capture by the Allies mean certain death and various forms of physical and mental torture, not to mention cannibalism which the Red leaders have been trying to foster in the uneducated mind.

Red leaders inform their troops that the news of fair treatment by the Allied forces is nothing more than a propaganda ruse to use the POW as a lure for their propaganda material and after they have achieved their aims the prisoners will be executed.

Turner and the Joint U. S. Public Affairs Office emphatically deny the accusations and state that their main mission is to reach the Viet Cong whose friends are held by the Allies and to deliver mail from the POW's, in their own hand, that all the Americans promise is indeed true.

The "Chieu Hoi" (open arms) program of the South Vietnamese government is to influence the POW's acquaintances, the officers and men of the Viet Cong forces, who are still fighting.

Turner was considered an excellent student here. In addition to his studies he found time to take an interest in his school and community.

He belonged to the Hi-Y, serving as its president in his senior year. He was a member of EMS for three years and was president of the club when he graduated in 1941.

In addition to this activity, he was editor of the Red & Black School Page. He belonged to the Glee Club, debate team, state team, Circleville Annual staff and participated in many other school activities.

Only approved targets can be hit in the zones, and the greatest restrictions are levied on U.S. pilots operating around Hanoi, Haiphong and the Vietnam-China border, the sources said.

In addition, they added, there is virtually no bombing along the Vietnam-China border. Military planners have established what is called an "Air Defense Identification Zone" along the border which U.S. planes are prohibited from penetrating, mainly to assure that there are no flights over Chinese territory.

The border zone is generally about 25 miles wide, although its depth varies from point to point.

Fourth-quarter earnings rose to $59.85 million or $1.11 a share from $49.03 million, or 78 cents a share, in the last quarter of 1965.

U. S. Steel maintained its 60 cents dividend which was increased 10 cents at the end of the third quarter of 1966.

Blough told newsmen the economy shows signs of leveling off and, he said, third-quarter 1966 corporate profits dipped below those of the first two quarters.

"If you add to those factors a tax increase, you drain more money out of the economy and it could have an adverse effect," Blough said.

He said nondefense spending should be trimmed first before a tax increase is imposed.

Blough said some steel executives are concerned about steel imports, which he estimated at 11 million tons last year.

Forecast on Atom Plant Electric Power Tripled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, reporting record-breaking activity in the nuclear power field in 1966, forecast today that atomic power plants would be furnishing enough electricity by 1972 to meet the needs of more than 27 million Americans.

That's almost triple the estimate for that approximate period made last June — and more than 14 times the electric power capabilities of the 14 nuclear power plants presently operating or operable in the United States.

The Atomic Energy commission made the prediction in its annual report to Congress. The report said the past year — and especially the past six months — saw an upsurge in nuclear power planning by private industry that exceeded "the most optimistic forecasts."

The commission said 1966 marked the first time atomic energy took the lead over conventional sources of electric power — such as coal and oil — in private industry's future planning. The AEC declared 55 per cent of the new steam-electric generating capacity announced by U.S. utilities during 1966 was for nuclear power plants.

The report also noted that existing plants have an operating capacity of 1.88 million kilowatts, and nine others under construction prior to last year have capabilities totaling 4.23 million kilowatts.

Chinese Revolution Seems Like Mad Peking Opera

TOKYO (AP)—What is happening in China today seems like the controlled madness of the Peking Opera: acrobats tumble, fierce generals fall before shrill-voiced heroines; drums roll and cymba clang.

But the audience pays little attention to that part of the opera. It is only when the rival emperors come on stage that the spectators stop gossiping and pay attention.

The "emperors" vying for applause of the crowds in China today are Mao Tse-tung and President Liu Shao-chi. The "heroines" are Mao's acid-tongued wife, former actress Chiang Ching, and Liu's wife, Wang Kuang-mei, accused by Mrs. Mao of being dissolute and luxury-loving.

Red China's two First Families—Mao is chief of the Communist party—are entwined in a struggle for power. Mao wants to recover the authority he lost in 1958 when Liu succeeded him as president. Liu is resisting.

Mao says China's Communist revolution has gone astray. He blames Liu for taking the soft road of Soviet "revisionism," thinking less of communism than of capitalism.

Since August, Mao has hammered at Liu's heavily entrenched positions with words and abuse scrawled across millions of wall newspapers in Peking or put into the mouths of fanatic Red Guards.

The words have turned to blows. Yet there is the absence from the Peking scene of the principals in this strange drama.

Since last November — when he made his ninth and final 1966 appearance before the Peking multitudes — Mao has not been seen in public. Nor has his chosen heir-apparent, Defense Minister Lin Biao.

These absences—and the lack of information about the whereabouts of Liu Shao-chi—give the Peking developments of recent weeks an air of intermission, as though a shadow play were being performed between the acts of the opera.

The shadow puppets are held in the younger and perhaps firmer hands of Chiang Ching and purge chairman Chen Po-ta. Under their manipulations, the villains have taken on a dimension larger than life.

Reportedly driven out of Peking in November 1965, Mao found refuge in Shanghai. From there he plotted his comeback, returned to the capital last July, once it had been seized by his own men. His big name foes were in Peking and could not escape.

He is trying to stage city coups in Shanghai, Nanking, Canton, Shenyang — Mukden, Harbin, Tientsin, Hankow and other big centers. But most of these cities are in the hands of Liu appointees.

Mao's strategy is to use the army. But in many areas, including Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang, the atom bomb testing site, the army's loyalty to him is not 100 per cent sure.

Like the traditional Peking Opera, what exists in China today is calculated disorder.

New Minimum Wage Law Now in Effect

Government Set For Torrent Of Questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal minimum wage went up to $1.40 an hour today as government officials braced for a flood of inquiries and labor leaders warned they will pounce on any violators.

The $1.40 applies to 32.3 million workers covered by the old $1.25 minimum, while 8 million more employees are brought under the law for the first time, starting at a $1 per hour minimum.

Altogether, nearly two million companies are covered by the law.

However, U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Carswell issued in Tallahassee, Fla., Tuesday night two 10-day temporary restraining orders prohibiting the Labor Department from enforcing the law in Florida.

The state sought the orders, contending the law is an invasion of state's rights. Florida also contends the new minimum wage, affecting some state employees, threatens to unsettle its budget.

The government estimates only about 4.7 million workers will get pay increases under the law since most of those covered already earn more than the minimums.

"We are pulling our investigators into the field offices to answer the phones," said Clarence T. Lundquist, Labor Department wage and hour administrator, noting the rising tide of queries from workers and employers.

"The new increases in the minimum wage will further tempt chiselers," said AFL-CIO President George Meany in asking President Johnson to strengthen enforcement.

Meany said the 13.5-million-member labor federation will set up its own nationwide enforcement machinery to police the law and help both union members and nonmembers press for federal action against cheaters.

Although the law — the Fair Labor Standards Act — provides fines up to $10,000 for willful violations and possible jail terms for a second offense, Lundquist said most cases are settled without court action.

"One of our problems is in getting employers to feel that we can be talked to," Lundquist said.

Some business groups have expressed fear of harassment by federal investigators and costly court litigation for accidental violations.

"Certainly inadvertent violations can be corrected by payment of back wages and assurances of future compliance," Lundquist said.

Meany said Lundquist's 1,000 investigators never have been enough to enforce the law and that "last year, some 430,000 workers were underpaid a total of $90 million by employers who flouted the Fair Labor Standards Act—and these figures cover only those who were discovered. Only about half the violators were caught."

Johnson's new budget provides for more investigators, but new amendments to the law boost the number of workers covered by nearly 30 per cent and the number of firms almost 60 per cent.

ite theory of a permanent revolution," Mao said in 1928.

By continuous development, Mao meant China's progress through periods of private land ownership, state capitalism, cooperatives, communes and finally into communism itself.

He has run head-on into Liu Shao-chi because he believes the president has pulled socialism into the wings just as the last act of pure communism was about to begin.

Former City Resident Has Unusual Role in Vietnam

Paul Turner, 43, former Circleville resident and graduate of the local high school, is presently attached to the 7th Air Force, Strategic Air Command, based at Binh Thuy and Rach Gia, Vietnam.

Turner is considered by the Air Force to be an integral part of the "Pony Express" program. He serves the role as a civilian.

The main effort of the "Pony Express" is to entice the Viet Cong to consider the American side of the war encourage them to reevaluate the propaganda that is constantly fed to the Communist troops in the line. Air Force spokesmen said it is vital that the Viet Cong learn the truth about their greatest fear, capture by the United Nations Armed Forces.

MANY Communist personnel sincerely believe that capture by the Allies mean certain death and various forms of physical and mental torture, not to mention cannibalism which the Red leaders have been trying to foster in the uneducated mind.

Red leaders inform their troops that the news of fair treatment by the Allied forces is nothing more than a propaganda ruse to use the POW as a lure for their propaganda material and after they have achieved their aims the prisoners will be executed.

Turner and the Joint U. S. Public Affairs Office emphatically deny the accusations and state that their main mission is to reach the Viet Cong whose friends are held by the Allies and to deliver mail from the POW's, in their own hand, that all the Americans promise is indeed true.

The "Chien Hoi" (open arms) program of the South Vietnamese government is to influence the POW's acquaintances, the officers and men of the Viet Cong forces, who are still fighting.

Turner was considered an excellent student here. In addition to his studies he found time to take an interest in his school and community.

He belonged to the Hi-Y, serving as its president in his senior year. He was a member of EMS for three years and was president of the club when he graduated in 1941.

In addition to this activity, he was editor of the Red & Black School Page. He belonged to the Glee Club, debate team, state test team, Circleville Annual staff and participated in many other school activities.

New View of Brazil

North Americans so commonly get a distorted, down-graded view of South America that it is refreshing to hear from the celebrated novelist, John Dos Passos, who has just returned from a trip to Brazil.

Far from bemoaning the present and future of that huge South American country, Dos Passos sees it becoming "the bread basket of the world." Comparing his observations of this trip with those made 18 years ago, Dos Passos was struck by the improved agricultural and cattle farming techniques which have been introduced in the interim.

He also pins his hopes for Brazil's future on the "enormous energy" of the people, and their tendency to compromise in politics, which always make them stop short at the brink of political disaster.

Those who doubt the wisdom of Dos Passos' predictions might take a look at the impressive agricultural production figures which Brazil already has set. It is the world's greatest coffee grower. It is a world leader in production of sugar. About 50 million head of cattle and 40 million head of hogs are raised annually. Cotton, rice, cocoa—on an on goes the roster of agricultural products which flow from the rich farming land of Brazil.

Dos Passos' predictions could be extended to cover other South American countries. South America has the abundance of good land and rich mineral resources that helped make North America so rich. It also has had for decades an infusion of immigrants which has added to the vitality of the continent.

Going Too Far

Under terms of a law passed by Congress last year, American cigarette packages now contain the warning: "Caution—cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

Yet the evidence seems to indicate that Americans are ignoring the warning; more cigarettes were smoked last year than ever. Quite obviously there's little the government can do if the people find that the pleasures of smoking outweigh the known hazards to their health.

But the government, it seems, is going to try anyhow. Now it has been proposed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that a law be passed requiring cigarette manufacturers to print the tar and nicotine levels of their products on their packages and in their advertising.

That's going too far. If people aren't concerned when told that cigarette smoking is dangerous, they aren't going to be any more concerned to find out just how dangerous it is.

Why Some Men Stay Single

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that make the average husband wonder why he didn't stay a bachelor:

"You'll have to wear that shirt to work again. The collar of all your other ones are frayed."

"I'm sorry to have to serve you leftovers for dinner, Joe, but I didn't get to go to the supermarket. I spent the afternoon watching soap operas on television, and my eyes are still red from crying. There's so much sadness in the world."

"It's all your fault that we're lost. If you had made a left turn at the last intersection, like I told you to, we'd have been there by now."

"What do you mean, how long am I going to keep you waiting? We can leave any minute now—as soon as I finish doing my nails and you zip me up."

"If the Smiths can afford a new car, why can't we? We've had our old one for so long it's about ready for the Smithsonian Institution."

"I know you hate to have me call you at the office, dear, but I think the baby has swallowed most of the canned food I set out for the cat. Do you think I should call the doctor, or just open another can for the cat?"

"But, Daddy, all the girls in our school are wearing them even shorter than this. If I wore a dress that came to my knees, everybody would think I was trying to be an old maid."

"I know that as a family man you could use a raise, Joe, but as I see it everybody is just going to have to buckle his belt a little tighter. This inflation is hitting everyone. Why, even my country club is raising its dues $200 a year. Doesn't that burn you up?"

"George, don't give Joe another drink. He's had two already, and if he's had three he'll want to start singing, and then we'll never get home."

"Let's see now. There's the $27.50 payment on the new color television set, $19.25 on the refrigerator, $12.73 on the washing machine, $50 for Susie's orthodontist—well, I guess we had better plan on spending our vacation at home this year."

"Daddy, I hate to bother you while you're reading your newspaper, but can you help me with my homework in algebra? I can't understand quadrilateral equations."

"What you need is a good hobby to take your mind off your financial problems, Joe. How about crossword puzzles? They're a lot cheaper than golf. All you need is a pencil with an eraser on it."

The Business World

By John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly four million workers covered under federal minimum wage laws got a raise today to $1.40 an hour from $1.25. At that rate, their annual income is $2,912, insufficient for bare needs.

About eight million other workers covered for the first time under minimum wage legislation must be paid a dollar an hour. That's $2,080 a year, assuming that a full year's work is available.

These were legislated raises and will help mostly those whose skills, if they had any, have been outdated in this technological world. It will help those who cannot sell their wares because of low intelligence, poor education, fate, poverty or physical condition.

This problem of the economically deprived is becoming, relatively, a more serious problem. The majority of Americans are living well, their incomes have doubled in the past 20 years. But not all have shared this prosperity.

The explosion of technology has meant that men must acquire more and different skills, relinquishing to machines and automation those skills lowest in importance.

Brand-new skills also have been developed. This does not mean that the old skills such as carpentering, for example, are outdated. They have been joined, for example, by computer programming, among others.

Evidence of this growing refinement of skills was portrayed a year ago by a commission reporting to Congress. Its basic finding was that nearly one of every two workers in the United States will wear a white collar by 1975.

By 1975, the commission estimated, white collar workers will number 42.8 million, an increase of more than 30 per cent from present figures. And the biggest increase, it found, will be in professional and technical categories.

This leaves relatively fewer blue collar jobs. And, despite growing population, there is expected to be almost no increase in the more than 3.5 million common laborer jobs now existing.

The common laborer, then, is in a poor and worsening bargaining position. Recognizing this, government, universities and foundations are intensely studying the problems of this imbalance.

Progress is being made from a dismally low platform. A few of the milestones have been Social Security, minimum wage and fair employment laws. The Employment Act of 1946 which put the government squarely behind maximum employment, and a concentration of effort by private enterprise and government to teach and train workers, including the handicapped.

The reverse income tax, in which taxes are rebated to those earning below a fixed figure, is now being called for by both liberals and conservatives. And studies are being made of a guaranteed annual wage.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SOME YEARS back the canny town fathers of Hanover, New Hampshire, devised a neat plan for raising a little much-needed revenue. They slapped a two-dollar poll tax on every Dartmouth student of voting age. The students, who cared as much about town politics as they did about the football prospects of Slippery Rock Teachers' College, reacted promptly and effectively. The whole student body stormed into the next town meeting, where they outnumbered the natives three to one, and voted for a new town hall to be 75 feet high, two feet square, and to cost a million dollars.

The town fathers knew when they were outsmarted. They gave each Dartmouth boy his two bucks back, voted unanimously to keep their old town hall as was—and from then on everybody in Hanover has lived happily and in peace.

An ardent young Lothario in Westminster, Maryland, sent his best girl a five-pound box of candy for her birthday with this note enclosed: "To Irma, with all my allowance."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Is it possible to cure a curvature of the spine by exercise? Curvature of the spine, or scoliosis, is a rather common condition that is seen in various degrees in children, teenagers and young adults. Sometimes the cause is completely unknown. Children are occasionally born with some developmental abnormality which later is responsible for curvature of the spine.

A shortened leg or the aftermath of infantile paralysis may change a straight spine to a curved one.

Exercise is the very last thing that should be tried to correct this condition. First, the extent of the curvature and the progress over a number of years must be carefully watched.

Braces, appliances and plaster casts are used by orthopedists in carefully chosen patients. When the curvature is very severe and interferes with growth and motion, surgery may be decided upon.

There are now a great many brilliant operations that use bone grafts, metal rods and spinal fusion to correct the deformity.

Exercise should only be used under the direction of a physician when once the medical treatment has been started. Too often exercise alone for the correction of such a condition delays the beginning of treatment and wastes valuable time.

What are the adenoids? Why are they always included with tonsils as a combination?

The adenoids and the tonsils are part of a ring of lymphoid tissue which circle the back of the nose and the back of the throat. This is called Waldeyer's ring of protective tissue.

They both serve an important function in preventing infection of the nose and throat during early childhood. When the tonsils and adenoids themselves become infected and are a source of trouble it is frequently suggested that they be removed.

The adenoids are often a greater offender as a cause of infection, snoring, nasal blockage and ear infections than even the tonsils. The adenoids have a tendency to become smaller as children grow into puberty.

Occasionally the adenoids are removed, alone, leaving the tonsils. Most nose and throat doctors disagree with this attitude because almost always the tonsils turn out to be infected when the adenoids are diseased.

The adenoids lie behind the soft palate and cannot be seen without the special mirrors that are used by the physician. Because they are hidden the adenoids may have infection and produce symptoms that may be obscure.

Repeated infection of the ears following an ordinary cold alerts the doctor to the possibility that the adenoids are the trouble maker.

When the adenoids are very large, with or without infection, they may produce the typical open mouth facial expression. Marked nasal speech, bad odor, postnasal discharge and infection of the sinuses may be the result of large, diseased adenoids.

Sharp edges of chipped teeth should be smoothed before they do damage to the delicate tissue of the mouth.

Powell and the 'Backlash'

By John Chamberlain

The "liberal" analysis, on the night of the November elections, put great emphasis on the theory that the country was in the midst of a tremendous backlash against civil rights. The theory can't stand up for ten minutes' worth of sober consideration of the state-by-state vote. But, as the outcry against depriving Congressman Adam Clayton Powell of his chairmanship of the House Labor and Education Committee has demonstrated, the Negro community has accepted the backlash theory at face value, and it will probably be many a long month before the damage has been undone.

Powell himself, with his call to his followers to "keep the faith, baby," has been very adroit in the way he has manipulated the backlash charge in his own favor. But where has the backlash? If anything, the American people as a whole leaned over backward on November 11 to avoid an expression of racial antipathies. In California, Ronald Reagan made high state taxes and the Berkeley Vietnam troubles his chief campaign issues, and even before he had been sworn in as governor he had brought "Chad" McClellan, the Los Angeles businessman who had helped find work for 13,000 unemployed Watts area Negroes, into his Administration to do a comparable job for the unemployed throughout California. In Illinois, the Senate race between the successful Charles Percy and the defeated Paul Douglas couldn't possibly have swung on the race prejudice issue, for both men were equally passionate in their espousal of the civil rights cause. In Massachusetts, the Republican Negro Attorney General, Edward Brooke, was elected to the Senate, the first of his race to rise that high in politics since Reconstruction days. Even if Brooke had lost, it would have proved nothing one way or another about civil rights issues.

For Endicott Peabody, his defeated opponent, was even more pro-Negro than Brooke himself. As for the Deep South, Lester Maddox, the most violent anti-segregationist candidate for governor of Georgia, got the fewest votes, and if a small bloc of liberals hadn't confused the issue by the write-in for liberal Democrat Ellis Arnall, Georgia would have presented a shining proof that the race issue, if not dead, was at least on the way to limbo.

This sort of election analysis could be repeated for community after community. But try to sell the obvious truth to Powell's supporters and you will get nowhere. All the important Negro leaders, from A. Philip Randolph, the international president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, to Martin Luther King, the chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, seem convinced that Powell lost his committee chairmanship—and is in further danger of losing his Congressional seat—simply because he is Negro.

According to Randolph, King, and Whitney Young, the director of the Urban League, a majority in the House of Representatives has conspired to hurt Adam Clayton Powell because the election returns have proved the popularity of backlash politics.

This is simply bosh. The truth is that Adam Clayton Powell would have run into real trouble long ago for his antics if his skin had been white. For doing far less than Powell (indeed, he may not have done anything reprehensible at all), Senator Tom Dodd of Connecticut has been forced to fight for his political life for a full year. Powell has helped make the laws by which mere groundlings must abide, yet he has refused to comply with court orders in his own city of New York. He has had a hand in levy heavy taxes on the rest of us, yet he has managed to spend our tax money splendidly in places as far apart as Hawaii and Bimini. This is enough to make anybody disgusted with his behavior, for lawmakers, of all people, should consider themselves bound by the law.

Here and there an important Negro has managed to be philosophical about Powell's discomfiture. One of them (let's keep him anonymous, for fear that he might be harmed in the eyes of his fellows) remarked the other day that Powell's loss of flamor might prove to be a good thing. "Now that Adam has been discredited," he said, "Negroes who have been living their lives vicariously will be forced to live for themselves." If this turns out to be true, it will be a gain all around. For nobody can improve Harlem merely by dreaming of spending "Whitey's" money in Bimini.

New View of Brazil

North Americans so commonly get a distorted, down-graded view of South America that is refreshing to hear from the celebrated novelist, John Dos Passos, who has just returned from a trip to Brazil.

Far from bemoaning the present and future of that huge South American country, Dos Passos sees it becoming "the bread basket of the world." Comparing his observations of this trip with those made 18 years ago, Dos Passos was struck by the improved agricultural and cattle farming techniques which have been introduced in the interim.

He also pins his hopes for Brazil's future on the "enormous energy" of the people, and their tendency to compromise in politics, which always make them stop short at the brink of political disaster.

Those who doubt the wisdom of Dos Passos' predictions might take a look at the impressive agricultural production figures which Brazil already has set. It is the world's greatest coffee grower. It is a world leader in production of sugar. About 50 million head of cattle and 40 million head of hogs are raised annually. Cotton, rice, cocoa—on an on goes the roster of agricultural products which flow from the rich farming land of Brazil.

Dos Passos' predictions could be extended to cover other South American countries. South America has the abundance of good land and rich mineral resources that helped make North America so rich. It also has had for decades an infusion of immigrants which has added to the vitality of the continent.

Going Too Far

Under terms of a law passed by Congress last year, American cigarette packages now contain the warning: "Caution—cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

Yet the evidence seems to indicate that Americans are ignoring the warning; more cigarettes were smoked last year than ever. Quite obviously there's little the government can do if the people find that the pleasures of smoking outweigh the known hazards to their health.

Why Some Men Stay Single

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that make the average husband wonder why he didn't stay a bachelor:

"You'll have to wear that shirt to work again. The collar of all your other ones are frayed."

"I'm sorry to have to serve you leftovers for dinner, Joe, but I didn't get to go to the supermarket. I spent the afternoon watching soap operas on television, and my eyes are still red from crying. There's so much sadness in the world."

"It's all your fault that we're lost. If you had made a left turn at the last intersection, like I told you to, we'd have been there by now."

"What do you mean, how long am I going to keep you waiting? We can leave any minute now—as soon as I finish doing my nails and you zip me up."

"If the Smiths can afford a new car, why can't we? We've had our old one for so long it's about ready for the Smithsonian Institution."

"I know you hate to have me call you at the office, dear, but I think the baby has swallowed most of the canned food I set out for the cat. Do you think I should call the doctor, or just open another can for the cat?"

"But, Daddy, all the girls in our school are wearing them even shorter than this. If I wore a dress that came to my knees, everybody would think I was trying to be an old maid."

"I know that as a family man you could use a raise, Joe, but as I see it everybody is just going to have to buckle his belt a little tighter. This inflation is hitting everyone. Why, even my country club is raising its dues $200 a year. Doesn't that burn you up?"

"George, don't give Joe another drink. He's had two already, and if he's had three he'll want to start singing, and then we'll never get home."

"Let's see now. There's the $27.50 payment on the new color television set, $19.25 on the refrigerator, $12.73 on the washing machine, $50 for Susie's orthodontist—well, I guess we had better plan on spending our vacation at home this year."

"Daddy, I hate to bother you while you're reading your newspaper, but can you help me with my homework in algebra? I can't understand quadrilateral equations."

"What you need is a good hobby to take your mind off your financial problems, Joe. How about crossword puzzles? They're a lot cheaper than golf. All you need is a pencil with an eraser on it."

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly four million workers covered under federal minimum wage laws got a raise today to $1.40 an hour from $1.25. At that rate, their annual income is $2,912, insufficient for bare needs.

About eight million other workers covered for the first time under minimum wage legislation must be paid a dollar an hour. That's $2,080 a year, assuming that a full year's work is available.

These were legislated raises and will help mostly those whose skills, if they had any, have been outdated in this technological world. It will help those who cannot sell their wares because of low intelligence, poor education, fate, poverty or physical condition.

This problem of the economically deprived is becoming, relatively, a more serious problem. The majority of Americans are living well, their incomes have doubled in the past 20 years. But not all have shared this prosperity.

The explosion of technology has meant that men must acquire more and different skills, relinquishing to machines and automation those skills lowest in importance.

Brand-new skills also have been developed. This does not mean that the old skills such as carpentering, for example, are outdated. They have been joined, for example, by computer programming, among others.

Evidence of this growing refinement of skills was portrayed a year ago by a commission reporting to Congress. Its basic finding was that nearly one of every two workers in the United States will wear a white collar by 1975.

By 1975, the commission estimated, white collar workers will number 42.8 million, an increase of more than 30 per cent from present figures. And the biggest increase, it found, will be in professional and technical categories.

This leaves relatively fewer blue collar jobs. And, despite growing population, there is expected to be almost no increase in the more than 3.5 million common laborer jobs now existing.

The common laborer, then, is in a poor and worsening bargaining position. Recognizing this, government, universities and foundations are intensely studying the problems of this imbalance.

Progress is being made from a dimly low platform.

A few of the milestones have been Social Security, minimum wage and fair employment laws. The Employment Act of 1946 which put the government squarely behind maximum employment, and a concentration of effort by private enterprise and government to teach and train workers, including the handicapped.

The reverse income tax, in which taxes are rebated to those earning below a fixed figure, is now being called for by both liberals and conservatives. And studies are being made of a guaranteed annual wage.

SOME YEARS back the canny town fathers of Hanover, New Hampshire, devised a neat plan for raising a little much-needed revenue. They slapped a two-dollar poll tax on every Dartmouth student of voting age. The students, who cared as much about town politics as they did about the football prospects of Slippery Rock Teachers' College, reacted promptly and effectively. The whole student body stormed into the next town meeting, where they outnumbered the natives three to one, and voted for a new town hall to be 75 feet high, two feet square, and to cost a million dollars.

The town fathers knew when they were outsmarted. They gave each Dartmouth boy his two bucks back, voted unanimously to keep their old town hall as was—and from then on everybody in Hanover has lived happily and in peace.

Powell and the 'Backlash'

By John Chamberlain

The "liberal" analysis, on the night of the November elections, put great emphasis on the theory that the country was in the midst of a tremendous backlash against civil rights. The theory can't stand up for ten minutes' worth of sober consideration of the state-by-state vote. But, as the outcry against depriving Congressman Adam Clayton Powell of his chairmanship of the House Labor and Education Committee has demonstrated, the Negro community has accepted the backlash theory at face value, and it will probably be many a long month before the damage has been undone.

Powell himself, with his call to his followers to "keep the faith, baby," has been very adroit in the way he has manipulated the backlash charge in his own favor. But where has the backlash? If anything, the American people as a whole leaned over backward on November 11 to avoid an expression of racial antipathies. In California, Ronald Reagan made high state taxes and the Berkeley Vietnam troubles his chief campaign issues, and even before he had been sworn in as governor he had brought "Chad" McClellan, the Los Angeles businessman who had helped find work for 13,000 unemployed Watts area Negroes, into his Administration to do a comparable job for the unemployed throughout California. In Illinois, the Senate race between the successful Charles Percy and the defeated Paul Douglas couldn't possibly have swung on the race prejudice issue, for both men were equally passionate in their espousal of the civil rights cause. In Massachusetts, the Republican Negro Attorney General, Edward Brooke, was elected to the Senate, the first of his race to rise that high in politics since Reconstruction days. Even if Brooke had lost, it would have proved nothing one way or another about civil rights issues, for Endicott Peabody, his defeated opponent, was even more pro-Negro than Brooke himself. FOUR HOMES COLLAPSE IN STORM—Two straight days of continuous rain caused an estimated $400,000 damage when four unoccupied duplexes collapsed and 16 other units were damaged by earth movement in a San Francisco suburb—San Anselmo.

Joined Twins Recover from Separation

HIGH POINT, N.C., (AP) — Approaching their second birthday, the two girls laugh and talk, have healthy appetites, and crawl with as much speed as any tot. One has taken a few steps and doctors today believe both eventually may walk almost normally.

Yet, during the first seven months of their lives, the girls were Siamese twins, joined at birth in the pelvic region. Their successful separation is believed to be the first of its kind.

Dr. Joseph E. Eades and Dr. Colin G. Thomas described the unique case in detail for the first time in the December issue of Annals of Surgery.

In a preface, the doctors said they found histories of 16 cases of Siamese twins being separated and surviving, with most of these involving bodies joined in the area of the chest.

They said, however, that they have never heard of another successful separation of Siamese twins joined in the pelvic region.

The twins, Althea and Dorothea Allen, were born in High Point Memorial Hospital on April 6, 1965, to Mrs. David Allen, 25. Their combined weight was just over seven pounds. Dr. Otis F. Tillman, who delivered the infants, reported that they breathed and cried at the same time.

The babies were moved immediately to the North Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill for tests to determine if they could survive surgical separation. Months of examinations revealed that, except for the sharing of a few nonvital organs and functions, the twins appeared to be separate physical entities.

Their breathing and heart action were not related. The pinching of one infant provoked no response from her twin.

The question was whether to risk separation, with no known medical precedent of success in a case of this kind. As the twins grew, however, one appeared to become physically dominant. She grew faster and became more active.

Specialists agreed that this might prove dangerous if the infants remained unseparated and an operation was decided upon.

First a team of surgeons, plastic surgeons, pediatricians, anesthesiologists and urologists ran through a mock operation, using two dolls to familiarize themselves with any difficulties involved in the physical handling of the human twins.

Then, on Nov. 8, 1965, surgery was performed on two adjoining tables so that, once separated, each twin could be cared for by separate teams of doctors. The operation lasted 5½ hours.

The doctors encountered no apparent difficulty in cutting through the pelvic juncture, which consisted only of cartilage.

Today, the twins are back home in High Point. They need further treatment, if they ever are to walk. At birth, their heads and arms were placed normally, but their legs protruded at right angles to their joint body trunk.

The authors of the article believe additional splinting may eventually restore the normal hip position and that some day the two girls will walk.

Low Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Weather bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Mostly cloudy skies covered Ohio during the night and precipitation was confined to occasional drizzle at Youngstown and Cleveland.

Temperatures by early this morning registered in the 30s and in the 40s southeast along the Ohio River.

Sample readings included Toledo and Cleveland 33, Cincinnati 35, Columbus 32, and Marietta 41.

Overcast and dry weather was expected in Ohio today. Temperatures near 40 north to the low 50s south were likely.

The leading edge of a large rain area that reached extreme western Illinois early this morning was scheduled to arrive in Ohio tonight.

The rain could possibly be mixed with snow at first in the northern counties. Rain should then fall throughout the state Thursday.

Temperatures tonight will be no lower than the 30s north and the 40s south.

Bond Issue

U.S. senator, and congressman. Republican leaders noted that the May 2 elections bill still can be passed as an emergency measure which would take effect immediately. They have the two-thirds majority needed for emergency bills in the Senate but are four short of the 66 House votes needed.

The next move, leaders indicated, will be for the Senate to pass the bill and add an emergency clause, then return it to the House which rejected an emergency clause Monday night.

The idea would be for Republicans to seek four Democratic House members to join Kilpatrick, who asserted the elections should be held "to place these important proposals before the people of Ohio." If Republicans can't find four Democratic supporters, the proposals apparently will be on the November ballot.

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown R-Medina attempted to limit the debate to the elections bill but senators made frequent reference to the ballot proposals from both sides of the aisle.

"You just can't separate them. They're all tied together in a package and they're trying to railroad it through," King said privately before the session started.

He added: "This puts Democrats in the embarrassing position of putting an advance stamp of approval on something we know nothing about."

The Senate Ways and Means Committee sent to a subcommittee proposals to equalize the pay of judges and other public officials serving in the same office and allow universities, community colleges, and technical institutes to place bond issues on primary as well as general election ballots. The latter bill also would permit county commissioners to advance funds for planning community colleges.

Notice how many new cars look like old Pontiacs?

What'll they copy next year?

Other carmakers have already tried to copy our split grille, our stacked headlights, even Wide-Track. Of course, they haven't learned how to put them together right. Which is probably why people are buying 1967 Pontiacs even faster than they bought 1966 Pontiacs. And 1966 was our best year ever.

It seems that a lot of people don't want to wait around for innovations like our disappearing windshield wipers (articulated wide-sweep wipers—the kind you still get only on Pontiacs). And for imaginative options like our exclusive hood-mounted tach.

People like the idea that powerful 400 cu. in. V-8s are standard on all the big Pontiacs this year. And that nobody has even come close to the regular-gas 165-hp Overhead Cam Six that powers our Tempest series.

And people like knowing that all Pontiacs and Tempests come with the complete General Motors safety package.

Of course, somebody else may come up with a pretty good imitation of a 1967 Pontiac. In a year or two. But why wait? Your Pontiac dealer has the real thing right now.

Vatican-Soviet Sessions May Herald New Epoch

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican and the Soviet Union are believed preparing secret talks that could lead to a new era in the Roman Catholic Church's relations with the Communists.

Vatican circles consider that meetings on a "technical level" are one of the most likely developments from Pope Paul VI's meeting Monday with Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny, the highest ranking Communist ever received by a Pope.

These circles emphasized that developments were still at an early stage and that any negotiations that resulted would be protracted. But they said the Vatican and the Russians seemed to be moving toward an agreement setting up some kind of reciprocal diplomatic representation short of an exchange of ambassadors.

The Vatican signed a similar agreement with Communist Yugoslavia last June after long, unannounced negotiations.

Vatican sources say the church sees no difficulty in exchanging diplomats provided the Soviet government guarantees the church's rights in the Soviet Union, where there are 10 million Roman Catholics.

The church would like to replace dioceses eliminated by the Communists in the decade after the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

The church also reportedly would like to appoint a representative for the three Baltic republics — Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia — which have large Catholic populations and whose postwar absorption into the Soviet Union the church does not recognize.

Any accord with the Soviet Union would be expected to have a tremendous impact on the Vatican's relations with all of Eastern Europe.

Talk of negotiations between the Vatican and the Soviet Union stemmed not so much from the fact that the Pope met with Podgorny as from the way the meeting was carried out.

The 70-minute interview was not a conventional audience that included only the Pope, his guest and an interpreter but a seven-man roundtable which the Italian press described as a summit conference.

The Pope was flanked by the Vatican secretary of state, Amleto Cardinal Cicognani; Bishop Mario Brini, who handles church affairs in the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Romania, and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Agostino Casaroli, the church's top negotiator with Communist governments.

Helen Achilles, Stagg, Fast Buck? We Give Up!

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP) — Some critics say that modern art has blown its top. But who ever thought it would go topless?

Well, the art world had best prepare itself. Topless art has come to San Gabriel and, though the proportions of the new fad's influence are not yet known, more than a few residents, mostly male, have felt it is worth looking at.

The technique involves the use of a topless girl, paint, canvas and a crowd of onlookers to create an abstract painting.

The technique: Artist dabs girl with paint — usually cold paint so the girl can squeal — and girl slithers onto canvas. This produces unusual designs on the canvas, and the girl, too, which are quite different from most examples of abstract art.

The artist, Warren Stagg, 38, of Hollywood, says he is serious about his work.

Like many artistic innovators

he has his detractors. "This is intellectual dishonesty," said Mayor Helen Achilles. "It's in the interest of the fast buck."

The mayor and City Council of San Gabriel, located about 10 miles east of Los Angeles, have been complaining since Stagg opened his "art show" at a restaurant.

They want the "abstract impressionist" to stop painting, at least in the present fashion, and they want the restaurant owner, Bill Coleman, former police chief in nearby Monterey Park, to dress his women employees more modestly.

When the club opened its art show New Year's Eve, Coleman was charged with providing entertainment without a license. The case may be heard today in Alhambra Municipal Court.

Meanwhile, the exhibitions continue. So does public protest — except from those who fill the house every day.

Givenchy Collection Gets Raves from Fashion Buyers

PARIS (AP) — "Elegant, beautiful, superb," was the way buyers summed up Givenchy's spring and summer fashion collection Tuesday.

Givenchy showed to buyers only, with a presentation for the press set for next month.

Buyers had raves for Givenchy's sleeveless dresses, belted blouses and soft evening and cocktail dresses.

One navy coat had a wide white leather belt fitted at the front of the waist. It was in a small herringbone. Coat belts are shaped in the back and drop to about the low hipline. They are higher in the front.

One of the most important buying office heads said: "What a relief to see a real couture collection devoid of gimmicks and bloomers. Except for beachwear."

Givenchy went his own way, designing clothes for people who have the money, the time to wear them and a love of beauty. The word elegance kept popping up from all categories of buyers, from stores to New York manufacturers.

The collection is soft and feminine. Coats have restrained dolman or raglan sleeves. Gold chains are used. Shaping honors with leather belts. Sometimes the two are combined. Some shoulder tabs appear on coats, also touched with metal gilt or copper.

Suits have mostly sleeveless waists. The suits are plaid or checked with the vest plain. Some have plaid sleeves. Givenchy likes navy and there are some good navy worsted suits striped in white.

Joined Twins Recover from Separation

HIGH POINT, N.C., (AP) — Approaching their second birthday, the two girls laugh and talk, have healthy appetites, and crawl with as much speed as any tot. One has taken a few steps and doctors today believe both eventually may walk almost normally.

Yet, during the first seven months of their lives, the girls were Siamese twins, joined at birth in the pelvic region. Their successful separation is believed to be the first of its kind.

Dr. Joseph E. Fades and Dr. Colin G. Thomas described the unique case in detail for the first time in the December issue of Annals of Surgery.

In a preface, the doctors said they found histories of 16 cases of Siamese twins being separated and surviving, with most of these involving bodies joined in the area of the chest.

They said, however, that they have never heard of another successful separation of Siamese twins joined in the pelvic region.

The twins, Althea and Dorothea Allen, were born in High Point Memorial Hospital on April 6, 1965, to Mrs. David Allen, 25. Their combined weight was just over seven pounds. Dr. Otis E. Tillman, who delivered the infants, reported that they breathed and cried at the same time.

The babies were moved immediately to the North Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill for tests to determine if they could survive surgical separation. Months of examinations revealed that, except for the sharing of a few nonvital organs and functions, the twins appeared to be separate physical entities.

Their breathing and heart action were not related. The pinching of one infant provoked no response from her twin.

The question was whether to risk separation, with no known medical precedent of success in a case of this kind. As the twins grew, however, one appeared to become physically dominant. She grew faster and became more active.

Specialists agreed that this might prove dangerous if the infants remained unseparated and an operation was decided upon.

First a team of surgeons, plastic surgeons, pediatricians, anesthesiologists and urologists ran through a mock operation, using two dolls to familiarize themselves with any difficulties involved in the physical handling of the human twins.

Then, on Nov. 8, 1965, surgery was performed on two adjoining tables so that, once separated, each twin could be cared for by separate teams of doctors. The operation lasted 5½ hours.

The doctors encountered no apparent difficulty in cutting through the pelvic juncture, which consisted only of cartilage.

Today, the twins are back home in High Point. They need further treatment, if they ever are to walk. At birth, their heads and arms were placed normally, but their legs protruded at right angles to their joint body trunk.

The authors of the article believe additional splinting may eventually restore the normal hip position and that some day the two girls will walk.

Notice how many new cars look like old Pontiacs?

What'll they copy next year?

Other carmakers have already tried to copy our split grille, our stacked headlights, even Wide-Track. Of course, they haven't learned how to put them together right. Which is probably why people are buying 1967 Pontiacs even faster than they bought 1966 Pontiacs. And 1966 was our best year ever.

It seems that a lot of people don't want to wait around for innovations like our disappearing windshield wipers (articulated wide-sweep wipers—the kind you still get only on Pontiacs). And for imaginative options like our exclusive hood-mounted tach.

People like the idea that powerful 400 cu. in. V-8s are standard on all the big Pontiacs this year. And that nobody has even come close to the regular-gas 165-hp Overhead Cam Six that powers our Tempest series.

And people like knowing that all Pontiacs and Tempests come with the complete General Motors safety package.

Of course, somebody else may come up with a pretty good imitation of a 1967 Pontiac. In a year or two. But why wait? Your Pontiac dealer has the real thing right now.

U.S. senator, and congressman. Republican leaders noted that the May 2 elections bill still can be passed as an emergency measure which would take effect immediately. They have the two-thirds majority needed for emergency bills in the Senate but are four short of the 66 House votes needed.

The next move, leaders indicated, will be for the Senate to pass the bill and add an emergency clause, then return it to the House which rejected an emergency clause Monday night.

The idea would be for Republicans to seek four Democratic House members to join Kilpatrick, who asserted the elections should be held "to place these important proposals before the people of Ohio." If Republicans can't find four Democratic supporters, the proposals apparently will be on the November ballot.

Lt. Gov. John W. Brown R-Medina attempted to limit the debate to the elections bill but senators made frequent reference to the ballot proposals from both sides of the aisle.

"You just can't separate them. They're all tied together in a package and they're trying to railroad it through," King said privately before the session started.

He added: "This puts Democrats in the embarrassing position of putting an advance stamp of approval on something we know nothing about."

The Senate Ways and Means Committee sent to a subcommittee proposals to equalize the pay of judges and other public officials serving in the same office and allow universities, community colleges, and technical institutes to place bond issues on primary as well as general election ballots. The latter bill also would permit county commissioners to advance funds for planning community colleges.

Vatican-Soviet Sessions May Herald New Epoch

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican and the Soviet Union are believed preparing secret talks that could lead to a new era in the Roman Catholic Church's relations with the Communists.

Vatican circles consider that meetings on a "technical level" are one of the most likely developments from Pope Paul VI's meeting Monday with Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny, the highest ranking Communist ever received by a Pope.

These circles emphasized that developments were still at an early stage and that any negotiations that resulted would be protracted. But they said the Vatican and the Russians seemed to be moving toward an agreement setting up some kind of reciprocal diplomatic representation short of an exchange of ambassadors.

The Vatican signed a similar agreement with Communist Yugoslavia last June after long, unannounced negotiations.

Vatican sources say the church sees no difficulty in exchanging diplomats provided the Soviet government guarantees the church's rights in the Soviet Union, where there are 10 million Roman Catholics.

The church would like to replace dioceses eliminated by the Communists in the decade after the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

The church also reportedly would like to appoint a representative for the three Baltic republics — Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia — which have large Catholic populations and whose postwar absorption into the Soviet Union the church does not recognize.

Any accord with the Soviet Union would be expected to have a tremendous impact on the Vatican's relations with all of Eastern Europe.

Talk of negotiations between the Vatican and the Soviet Union stemmed not so much from the fact that the Pope met with Podgorny as from the way the meeting was carried out.

The 70-minute interview was not a conventional audience that included only the Pope, his guest and an interpreter but a seven-man roundtable which the Italian press described as a summit conference.

The Pope was flanked by the Vatican secretary of state, Amleto Cardinal Cicognani; Bishop Mario Brini, who handles church affairs in the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Romania, and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Agostino Casaroli, the church's top negotiator with Communist governments.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Young Lovers Need Sound Advice

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 17-year-old girl who has never given us any trouble. She's an honor student and is active in her church group. While she never was wildly popular, she has had a few "steadies."

I have suspected for some time that she and her boy friend were going "all the way." My suspicions were confirmed last week. I am not guessing. I know. I live in fear that she will get pregnant. Should I come right out and tell her I know, and offer her protection with birth control pills? I do not use them myself, but I'm sure my doctor would prescribe them for me if I asked him to, then I could give them to her.

Should we forbid her to see this boy again? (He is only 18.) Please advise me, Abby. If I failed to prevent the tragedy of bringing an unwanted life into the world (or perhaps a botched abortion) I would never forgive myself.

TORN

DEAR TORN: If you provide your daughter with pills you are in effect condoning her illicit relations. Have a frank talk with her and tell her that you know. Stress the dangers of premarital relations and the rewards of self-control. Don't "forbid" her to see her boy friend or you'll drive them to meeting on the sly, which could make their clandestine meetings even more exciting.

Try to prevent them from spending too much time alone in tempting circumstances. Perhaps if your husband were to have a talk with the boy, it would help. Unwanted babies and botched abortions are not the only potential penalties for premarital relations. Venereal disease, fear of disclosure, and feelings of guilt and unworthiness do incalculable damage to the emotional health of "young lovers."

DEAR ABBY: Will you please say a few words in defense of us wives who are constantly being accused of "murdering" our husbands by feeding them fattening foods?

My husband is overweight and I am sick and tired of having people tell me it's my fault — and that I should "watch him." I serve well-balanced meals and try to keep the calories down. I never make rich desserts. I give him fruit instead. But he raids the refrigerator every night.

He took up golf, but he rides around in a golf cart, eating candy bars, so a lot of good golfing" does him. After dinner he goes out to buy a paper, and he stops for a hot fudge sundae. So, how can I help him, Abby?

FATTY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I could say a few words in your defense, but it won't help your husband. The only one who can help him is the one who does his eating.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOST HIM": I am not surprised. One of the biggest mistakes a girl can make is to start "improving" a guy after the second date.

If the romance is going to amount to something, save all those loving criticisms for later. They'll keep. At the beginning, love him the way he is, or look for someone else who comes closer to your specifications.

MISS NANCY F. DILLARD

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Dillard of Cape Coral, Fla., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Faye, to Mr. Larry E. Calton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Calton, Route 4.

Mr. Calton is a graduate of Teays Valley High School in Ashville. He is employed by Pinkerton Co. and the Jerry Spears Funeral Home in Columbus.

Ohio Banks To Follow Rate Trend

CINCINNATI (AP)—The large banks in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Dayton are following the nationwide trend of lowering the interest rate for business loans to 5 1/2 per cent.

A check this week showed the three biggest banks in Columbus are sticking with the 6 per cent interest rate. The trend was started last Thursday by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York which slashed its interest rate to 4 1/2 per cent.

The four largest banks in Cincinnati—the First National, the Central Trust Co., the Fifth Third Union Trust and the Provident Bank—announced their interest rate reduction Monday.

Four Cleveland banks also cut their interest rate. They were the Cleveland Trust, the Central National Bank, National City Bank of Cleveland and Society National Bank. The Union Commerce Bank of Cleveland is expected to follow suit.

Are Women Weak-Willed?

HINSDALE, Ill. (AP)—Take heart, men. In some ways women really are the weaker sex.

For example, a researcher says, they are weaker when it comes to kicking the cigarette habit.

Dr. Charles L. Dale made a study of 1,002 persons who attended stop-smoking clinics at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital more than a year ago.

A year later, 37.9 per cent of the men were still spurning cigarettes. All but 29.4 per cent of the women were backsliders.

"It's hard to pinpoint the reason for this," Dr. Dale, chief pathologist at the hospital, told an interviewer. "It's probably the emotional factor and difference in makeup between the sexes."

Dr. Dale said emotional upset, nervousness and pressures at work were blamed by the bulk of those who returned to smoking.

"Anybody can stop smoking if he tries hard enough and really wants to," Dr. Dale said.

"The whole answer, of course, is will power and motivation. We have people who have smoked for 45 years—three or four packs a day—go through our clinic and stop altogether. If they can do it, anybody can."

The clinics are conducted five consecutive nights by a doctor and a chaplain. They show films, give demonstrations and lead discussions.

But Dr. Dale attributes much of the success to the "buddy system." Participants are encouraged to pair off before the clinic ends. They call their "buddies" for moral support when they feel a strong urge to smoke. Dr. Dale does not encourage gradual withdrawal, or switching to cigars or pipes or using medicine.

"If a person is going to stop smoking," said Dr. Dale, "he has to stop by himself. Cutting down gradually is not the answer. Switching to a pipe or cigars encourages a new habit, and medicine can be habit-forming too."

Kingston Trio Decides To Call Their Act Quits

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Kingston Trio, whose rhythmic folk songs started a guitar-twang craze on the nation's campuses, is giving up the act that has netted millions.

Bob Shane, Nick Reynolds and John Stewart announced Monday they will disband after June 1, even though the trio can still earn $750,000 annually.

The reason they give: the public won't let them sing anything but "Tom Dooley" and other standard folk tunes.

Ten years ago, American folk music was largely limited to avant garde night clubs and hillbilly hoedowns. Then three California college boys took up guitars and banjo and formed a group they called the Kingston Trio — so named because Harry Belafonte's calypso music was then the fad.

The lively harmony of Shane, Reynolds and Dave Guard — who later left and was replaced by Stewart — captured the fancy of the college crowd, especially with the record of "Tom Dooley," which sold three million copies.

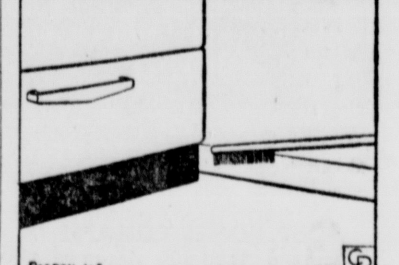

Soon they were earning a million dollars a year from albums, TV commercials and appearances. New folk singing acts sprang up all over and young Americans began thumping guitars and singing "Across the Wide Missouri!" and "Where Have All the Flowers Gone."

After singing "Tom Dooley" some three thousand times, the Kingston Trio began to tire of the diet of sameness.

"We felt that folk music was moving in a new direction and we tried to change with the times," said Reynolds "but we found audiences resented our trying something new."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Young Lovers Need Sound Advice

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 17-year-old girl who has never given us any trouble. She's an honor student and is active in her church group. While she never was wildly popular, she has had a few "steadies."

I have suspected for some time that she and her boy friend were going "all the way." My suspicions were confirmed last week. I am not guessing. I know. I live in fear that she will get pregnant. Should I come right out and tell her I know, and offer her protection with birth control pills? I do not use them myself, but I'm sure my doctor would prescribe them for me if I asked him to, then I could give them to her.

Should we forbid her to see this boy again? (He is only 18.) Please advise me, Abby. If I failed to prevent the tragedy of bringing an unwanted life into the world (or perhaps a botched abortion) I would never forgive myself.

TORN

DEAR TORN: If you provide your daughter with pills you are in effect condoning her illicit relations. Have a frank talk with her and tell her that you know. Stress the dangers of premarital relations and the rewards of self-control. Don't "forbid" her to see her boy friend or you'll drive her to meeting on the sneak, which could make their clandestine meetings even more exciting.

Try to prevent them from spending too much time alone in tempting circumstances. Perhaps if your husband were to have a talk with the boy, it would help. Unwanted babies and botched abortions are not the only potential penalties for premarital relations. Venereal disease, fear of disclosure, and feelings of guilt and unworthiness do incalculable damage to the emotional health of "young lovers."

DEAR ABBY: Will you please say a few words in defense of us wives who are constantly being accused of "murdering" our husbands by feeding them fattening foods?

My husband is overweight and I am sick and tired of having people tell me it's my fault — and that I should "watch him." I serve well-balanced meals and try to keep the calories down. I never make rich desserts. I give him fruit instead. But he raids the refrigerator every night.

He took up golf, but he rides around in a golf cart, eating candy bars, so a lot of good golfing" does him. After dinner he goes out to buy a paper, and he stops for a hot fudge sundae. So, how can I help him, Abby?

FATTY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I could say a few words in your defense, but it won't help your husband. The only one who can help him is the one who does his eating.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOST HIM": I am not surprised. One of the biggest mistakes a girl can make is to start "improving" a guy after the second date.

If the romance is going to amount to something, save all those loving criticisms for later. They'll keep. At the beginning, love him the way he is, or look for someone else who comes closer to your specifications.

Nancy Dillard Engaged to Larry Calton

MISS NANCY F. DILLARD

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Dillard of Cape Coral, Fla., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Faye, to Mr. Larry E. Calton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Calton, Route 4.

Miss Dillard is a graduate of N. Ft. Myers, Fla., High School and is employed by the General Electric Co.

Mr. Calton is a graduate of Teays Valley High School in Ashville. He is employed by Pinkerton Co. and the Jerry Spears Funeral Home in Columbus.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Ohio Banks To Follow Rate Trend

CINCINNATI (AP)—The large banks in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Dayton are following the nationwide trend of lowering the interest rate for business loans to 5 1/2 per cent.

A check this week showed the three biggest banks in Columbus are sticking with the 6 per cent interest rate. The trend was started last Thursday by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York which slashed its interest rate to 4 1/2 per cent.

The four largest banks in Cincinnati—the First National, the Central Trust Co., the Fifth Third Union Trust and the Provident Bank—announced their interest rate reduction Monday.

Four Cleveland banks also cut their interest rate. They were the Cleveland Trust, the Central National Bank, National City Bank of Cleveland and Society National Bank. The Union Commerce Bank of Cleveland is expected to follow suit.

Are Women Weak-Willed?

HINSDALE, Ill. (AP)—Take heart, men. In some ways women really are the weaker sex.

For example, a researcher says, they are weaker when it comes to kicking the cigarette habit.

Dr. Charles L. Dale made a study of 1,002 persons who attended stop-smoking clinics at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital more than a year ago.

A year later, 37.9 per cent of the men were still spurning cigarettes. All but 29.4 per cent of the women were backsliders.

"It's hard to pinpoint the reason for this," Dr. Dale, chief pathologist at the hospital, told an interviewer. "It's probably the emotional factor and difference in makeup between the sexes."

Dr. Dale said emotional upset, nervousness and pressures at work were blamed by the bulk of those who returned to smoking.

"Anybody can stop smoking if he tries hard enough and really wants to," Dr. Dale said.

"The whole answer, of course, is will power and motivation. We have people who have smoked for 45 years—three or four packs a day—go through our clinic and stop altogether. If they can do it, anybody can."

The clinics are conducted five consecutive nights by a doctor and a chaplain. They show films, give demonstrations and lead discussions.

But Dr. Dale attributes much of the success to the "buddy system." Participants are encouraged to pair off before the clinic ends. They call their "buddies" for moral support when they feel a strong urge to smoke. Dr. Dale does not encourage gradual withdrawal, or switching to cigars or pipes or using medicine.

"If a person is going to stop smoking," said Dr. Dale, "he has to stop by himself. Cutting down gradually is not the answer. Switching to a pipe or cigars encourages a new habit, and medicine can be habit-forming too."

Kingston Trio Decides To Call Their Act Quits

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Kingston Trio, whose rhythmic folk songs started a guitar-twang craze on the nation's campuses, is giving up the act that has netted millions.

Bob Shane, Nick Reynolds and John Stewart announced Monday they will disband after June 1, even though the trio can still earn $750,000 annually.

The reason they give: the public won't let them sing anything but "Tom Dooley" and other standard folk tunes.

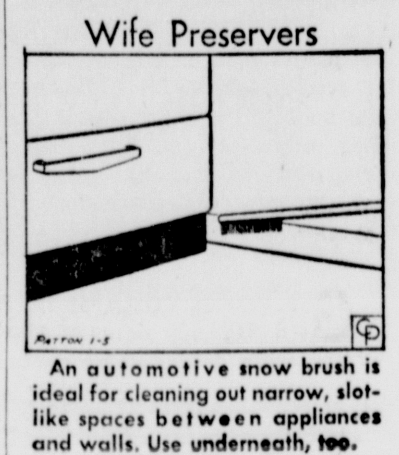

Ten years ago, American folk music was largely limited to avant garde night clubs and hillbilly hoedowns. Then three California college boys took up guitars and banjo and formed a group they called the Kingston Trio — so named because Harry Belafonte's calypso music was then the fad.

The lively harmony of Shane, Reynolds and Dave Guard — who later left and was replaced by Stewart — captured the fancy of the college crowd, especially with the record of "Tom Dooley," which sold three million copies.

Soon they were earning a million dollars a year from albums, TV commercials and appearances. New folk singing acts sprang up all over and young Americans began thumping guitars and singing "Across the Wide Missouri" and "Where Have All the Flowers Gone." After singing "Tom Dooley" some three thousand times, the Kingston Trio began to tire of the diet of sameness.

"We felt that folk music was moving in a new direction and we tried to change with the times," said Reynolds "but we found audiences resented our trying something new."

Decision To Use Oxygen in Spacecrafts Was Made Only after Serious Thought

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Four years ago, American scientists argued the pros and cons of a decision to use pure oxygen as the spacecraft atmosphere for the Apollo man-to-the-moon program.

Now, after two fatal flash-fire accidents in four days, that decision by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is under scrutiny.

Last Friday night at Cape Kennedy, the three Apollo 1 astronauts died when fire swept their spacecraft during a launch-pad test. In San Antonio, Tex., Tuesday, two airmen died in the flaming interior of a space cabin simulator.

All five men were working in a 100 per cent oxygen environment.

In 1963, opponents of the NASA decision cited the fire hazard of oxygen. Burning is the combining of certain fuels with oxygen—the more oxygen, the faster the burning. Light a cigarette in a pure oxygen environment and you might as well be lighting a fuse.

Jet fighter pilots use oxygen extensively, but not in such quantity or under such great pressure as in space.

The oxygen opponents also said pure oxygen breathed over long periods would damage an astronaut's health, causing such things as long-term anemia, vision impairment, oxygen poisoning and partial lung collapse.

They said pure oxygen was all right for short flights in the Mercury and Gemini programs, but suggested for Apollo that NASA switch to a two-gas atmosphere—such as the 20 per cent oxygen-80 per cent nitrogen mixture we breathe on earth.

Space agency officials said addition of an extra gas meant more plumbing, added weight and decreased reliability of the system.

If rapid decompression occurred in an oxygen-nitrogen system, the astronauts would be subjected to the bends — the painful fizzing of nitrogen gas in the blood like agitated soda pop during a sudden pressure change. Astronauts planning to take a space walk would have to breathe a great quantity of oxygen to purge their systems of nitrogen before stepping outside.

Also, with nitrogen-oxygen, the cabin would have to be pressurized to 14.7 pounds per square inch, compared with only 5.1 pounds for pure oxygen. Thus, the space ship would have to be built stronger to withstand the additional pressure.

The Soviet Union started out using a nitrogen-oxygen system, because its larger first-generation space ships could afford the luxury. But Soviet scientists have reported problems with this mixture and have indicated they are working on a blend of helium and oxygen.

Helium-oxygen also has been suggested for a U.S. system. But it has disadvantages such as making voices sound squeaky, which could foul up communications, and of conducting heat away from a man's body.

Until now, the NASA decision to go the one-gas route for its early manned missions seemed a good one. Sixteen spacecraft carrying a total of 26 men raced into space for periods up to 14 days with no oxygen problems.

Many precautions were taken. Each spacecraft purposely was overpressurized to push out extra gases that could contaminate the oxygen. High heat resistant materials were used. The cabins were vacuumed. The crew and launch teams were schooled in the dangers of pure oxygen.

In case of a fire in space, the astronauts could rapidly decompress their cabin, ridding it of the fire-feeding oxygen. They would have relied on their space suits for protection.

Had last Friday's Apollo 1 accident occurred during the Mercury program, the astronauts could have snuffed out most of the flame by pushing a button that would have blown off the hatch and diluted the pure oxygen. On Gemini this could have been done by firing ejection seats — if the gantry had been moved away from the rocket.

Apollo has neither safety device. The only exit for the three astronauts was through a double door requiring 60 to 90 seconds to remove. That's too long for the approximately 15 seconds it took for the fire to gut the cabin.

To build a quick ejection

hatch for Apollo would have been a major engineering problem. A NASA spokesman said. He noted the Apollo craft is a twin-shelled vehicle with inner and outer compartments requiring the opening of two hatches. A single section hatch might create a weak spot that could collapse under the heat and friction of re-entry, he said.

On earth orbit flights, the astronauts start re-entry at 17,500 miles an hour. On return trips from the moon, they'll be streaking in at 24,500 m.p.h.

Jet fighter pilots use oxygen extensively, but not in such quantity or under such great pressure as in space.

The oxygen opponents also said pure oxygen breathed over long periods would damage an astronaut's health, causing such things as long-term anemia, vision impairment, oxygen poisoning and partial lung collapse.

They said pure oxygen was all right for short flights in the Mercury and Gemini programs, but suggested for Apollo that NASA switch to a two-gas atmosphere—such as the 20 per cent oxygen-80 per cent nitrogen mixture we breathe on earth.

Space agency officials said addition of an extra gas meant more plumbing, added weight and decreased reliability of the system.

If rapid decompression occurred in an oxygen-nitrogen system, the astronauts would be subjected to the bends — the painful fizzing of nitrogen gas in the blood like agitated soda pop during a sudden pressure change. Astronauts planning to take a space walk would have to breathe a great quantity of oxygen to purge their systems of nitrogen before stepping outside.

Also, with nitrogen-oxygen, the cabin would have to be pressurized to 14.7 pounds per square inch, compared with only 5.1 pounds for pure oxygen. Thus, the space ship would have to be built stronger to withstand the additional pressure.

The Soviet Union started out using a nitrogen-oxygen system, because its larger first-generation space ships could afford the luxury. But Soviet scientists have reported problems with this mixture and have indicated they are working on a blend of helium and oxygen.

Helium-oxygen also has been suggested for a U.S. system. But it has disadvantages such as making voices sound squeaky, which could foul up communications, and of conducting heat away from a man's body.

Until now, the NASA decision to go the one-gas route for its early manned missions seemed a good one. Sixteen spacecraft carrying a total of 26 men raced into space for periods up to 14 days with no oxygen problems.

Many precautions were taken. Each spacecraft purposely was overpressurized to push out extra gases that could contaminate the oxygen. High heat-resistant materials were used. The cabins were vacuumed. The crew and launch teams were schooled in the dangers of pure oxygen.

In case of a fire in space, the astronauts could rapidly decompress their cabin, ridding it of the fire-feeding oxygen. They would have relied on their space suits for protection.

Had last Friday's Apollo 1 accident occurred during the Mercury program, the astronauts could have snuffed out most of the flame by pushing a button that would have blown off the hatch and diluted the pure oxygen. On Gemini this could have been done by firing ejection seats — if the gantry had been moved away from the rocket.

Apollo has neither safety device. The only exit for the three astronauts was through a double door requiring 60 to 90 seconds to remove. That's too long for the approximately 15 seconds it took for the fire to gut the cabin.

To build a quick ejection

hatch for Apollo would have been a major engineering problem, a NASA spokesman said. He noted the Apollo craft is a twin-shelled vehicle with inner and outer compartments requiring the opening of two hatches. A single section hatch might create a weak spot that could collapse under the heat and friction of re-entry, he said.

On earth orbit flights, the astronauts start re-entry at 17,500 miles an hour. On return trips from the moon, they'll be streaking in at 24,500 m.p.h.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 50 people in a few offices at one end of the 8th floor of a Washington office building are busy pulling together the pieces of the 12th and newest government department, called DOT for short.

Although Congress created the Department of Transportation last October, it isn't now scheduled to be in business before March 1. When it is, it will have 31 government agencies and bureaus under its wing, and 90,000 employees.

This makes it a very big department but, because of the way Congress set it up, it will be a long way from being one of the strongest arms of the government.

DOT will be mainly a moral force, a persuader, and a coordinator in the scrambled and tangled fields of air, rail and road transportation.

The various agencies and bureaus making up DOT will be ones dealing with railroads, airlines, buses, and all types of transportation except some on water because Congress did not include the Maritime Administration.

Among the agencies that are included are the Bureau of Public Roads, the Coast Guard and the Federal Aviation Agency.

But Congress didn't turn over to DOT the rate-making and regulatory powers that belong to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Federal Power Commission or the Maritime Administration.

This may make DOT look like a weakling among the government department giants.

But it can make recommendations to the President on what is needed in transportation. Then, when he accepts recommendations and offers them to Congress as his policies and programs, they should have tremendous weight.

All this means is that DOT has the job of planning for the present and the future in American transportation, which gets more mixed up by the day and is expected to double in 20 years.

DOT's new secretary, Alan S. Boyd, a 44-year-old Florida lawyer made head of DOT by President Johnson last month, was the Commerce Department's undersecretary for transportation.

In that job he was Johnson's chief adviser on transportation problems but, compared with what he has now, had practically no staff. Now when he gives advice it will be with the resources of government behind him.

A good deal of DOT's work will be research. For instance, take traveling in the crowded Northeast corner of the United States, say from Boston to New York.

Would it be cheaper to develop trains that go faster — at a cost of perhaps $700 million — or would it be more economical to work out some arrangement in which helicopters could be used?

Boyd said last month the nation is approaching the "crisis stage" in the problem of air travel congestion and the Johnson administration has under way a study of major programs to deal with it, a study which may be finished this year.

The continuing, pressing problem is the general demand for transportation which runs parallel to the country's economic growth. In this century four new systems of transportation were developed: autos, trucks, airplanes and pipelines.

Since few new systems are being imagined for the 33 years left before the end of this century, one of DOT's main tasks will be to figure out how the country can do better with what it has.

STAR

Star Grange met in regular session Tuesday evening in the Monroe School auditorium with Worthy Master Kenneth Reid presiding over the business session.

The group voted to help serve the luncheon Mar. 2 at the 4-H and Grange building for the Rotary Rural Urban meeting and also the Bloodmobile canteen on its next visit Feb. 17. All members were urged to help with the projects.

The program, as arranged by lecturer Mrs. Allen Follrod, observed the 100th anniversary of the National Grange. Mrs. Follrod read the history of the Grange and the chaplain, Mrs. Francis Furniss, lighted the centennial candle at the master's station. He, in turn, presented it to the lecturer.

Pomona Grange will meet Feb. 4. All members took part in the Grange Policy, the theme of the month. Mrs. Paul Dawson conducted a letter contest with all members participating.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shell.

a weakling among the government department giants.

But it can make recommendations to the President on what is needed in transportation. Then, when he accepts recommendations and offers them to Congress as his policies and programs, they should have tremendous weight.

All this means is that DOT has the job of planning for the present and the future in American transportation, which gets more mixed up by the day and is expected to double in 20 years.

DOT's new secretary, Alan S. Boyd, a 44-year-old Florida lawyer made head of DOT by President Johnson last month, was the Commerce Department's undersecretary for transportation.

In that job he was Johnson's chief adviser on transportation problems but, compared with what he has now, had practically no staff. Now when he gives advice it will be with the resources of government behind him.

A good deal of DOT's work will be research. For instance, take traveling in the crowded Northeast corner of the United States, say from Boston to New York.

Would it be cheaper to develop trains that go faster — at a cost of perhaps $700 million — or would it be more economical to work out some arrangement in which helicopters could be used?

Boyd said last month the nation is approaching the "crisis stage" in the problem of air travel congestion and the Johnson administration has under way a study of major programs to deal with it, a study which may be finished this year.

The continuing, pressing problem is the general demand for transportation which runs parallel to the country's economic growth. In this century four new systems of transportation were developed: autos, trucks, airplanes and pipelines.

Since few new systems are being imagined for the 33 years left before the end of this century, one of DOT's main tasks will

Pickaway Grange Report

STAR

Star Grange met in regular session Tuesday evening in the Monroe School auditorium with Worthy Master Kenneth Reid presiding over the business session.

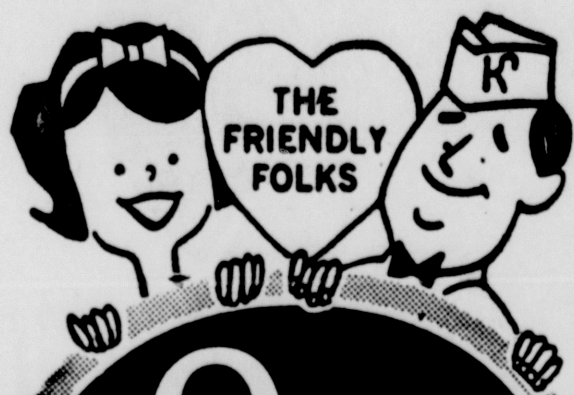

The group voted to help serve the luncheon Mar. 2 at the 4-H and Grange building for the Rotary Rural Urban meeting and also the Bloodmobile canteen on its next visit Feb. 17. All members were urged to help with the projects.

The program, as arranged by lecturer Mrs. Allen Follrod, observed the 100th anniversary of the National Grange. Mrs. Follrod read the history of the Grange and the chaplain, Mrs. Francis Furniss, lighted the centennial candle at the master's station. He, in turn, presented it to the lecturer.

Pomona Grange will meet Feb. 4. All members took part in the Grange Policy, the theme of the month. Mrs. Paul Dawson conducted a letter contest with all members participating.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shell.

Monthly meeting of the Trinity Lutheran Women's Circle was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Glen Christy, after a short business session. The topic for the month was led by Mrs. Christy in the absence of Mrs. Dorothy Creager, who was injured by a fall.

3-Year-Old Report Deals with Past Oxygen-Fires

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fires in oxygen-filled chambers — like that in the space capsule where three astronauts perished Friday — were the subject of a birthday Jan. 18. Those spending the day with her were John and Bill Young, Mrs. Audrey Spangler and Mrs. Mildred Shellhammer of Ringgold, Mrs. Besse Rife, Mrs. Ora Marshall and Bobby and Mrs. Alice Biggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Greeno of Circleville and John Conrad of Columbus visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Greeno Sunday.

3-year-old report to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

In one 1962 accident, the report shows, four men received critical burns when electricity ignited their chamber full of oxygen. The same year, a fire of unknown origin caused both persons in a simulated space cabin to lose consciousness.

The report took on added significance today in the wake of the blaze which killed astronauts Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White II and Roger B. Chaffee as they sat in their Apollo spacecraft atop a 218-foot rocket.

The main difference between Friday's tragedy and the earlier fires was that the pure oxygen atmosphere in the Apollo spacecraft was pressurized at 16 pounds per square inch — three times the pressure said to be involved in the other blazes.

The higher pressure, the more effectively oxygen feeds flames. And the higher pressure makes other objects more combustible.

The 1964 report, prepared for NASA by the Lovelace Foundation for Medical Education and Research of Albuquerque, N.M., said experimenters had conquered many of the fire hazards involved in 100 per cent oxygen-filled chambers.

This, said the report, may have bred "a false sense of security."

The 1962 incident in which two experimenters lost consciousness occurred at the Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine, Brooks Air Force Base, Tex. The report said smoke had not been detected by sight or smell when the blaze broke out.

The other fire detailed in the report happened at the aircrew equipment laboratory of the Naval Air Center in Philadelphia. Four experimenters were in a 100 per cent oxygen chamber pressurized at five pounds

The fire broke out after one of the men replaced a burned out electrical ceiling fixture. The men tried to snuff out the blaze with a towel and an asbestos fire blanket, but both objects ignited.

All four men received second-degree burns, said the report.

vision has made america great

Men of vision and dedicated people have made America the industrial, manufacturing, and retailing leader of the world.

Take our founder as an example.

More than a century ago, he envisioned a new concept of efficient, low-cost mass food distribution. This concept set the stage for the development of today's modern A&P and for today's entire food retailing industry.

Similar vision characterizes the current management of A&P:

Men who recognize the cost-saving potential of computerized warehousing and ordering.

Men who are applying practical automation to manufacturing facilities.

Men who are relocating distribution centers to take advantage of modern transportation and roads.

Men who are constantly on the lookout for better, more efficient methods of food handling.

Men who are, as always, dedicated to the basic concept of our founder: TO BRING THE MOST GOOD FOOD, TO THE MOST PEOPLE, FOR THE LEAST AMOUNT OF MONEY.

Mayor's Proclamation Opens Heart Month Campaign Here

The 1967 Heart Fund Campaign in Pickaway County opened today when Mayor Ben H. Gordon signed a proclamation declaring February as Heart Month.

The briefest proclamation within memory of City Hall workers was signed by Mayor Gordon. In designating February as Heart Month, it calls upon all citizens to support the Heart Fund with gifts and voluntary services. The mayor's declaration was 80 words long.

"Not too much elaboration is required when you're dealing with a complex of diseases responsible for about 54 per cent of all deaths in the nation," said Mayor Gordon. "Beyond this these afflict on the average one of nine citizens, and are a prime source of economic hardship."

The proclamation was signed in the presence of Dr. Manuel Sanguily, Pickaway County Heart Assistant President; Gordon Fraser, 1967 Heart Fund general chairman; and Terry Sloan, 1967 Heart Fund publicity chairman.

IN A SHORT address for the occasion, Fraser had this to say: "Great advances have been made against the heart and blood vessel diseases in the years since the Heart Association became a voluntary organization in 1948. The public's attitude of pessimism about heart disease has been reversed. Today we know that some forms of the heart and blood vessel diseases can be prevented, some cured and almost all helped with proper treatment after early diagnosis.

"Most heart attack victims recover from initial attacks. Of those who do, three out of four go back to work. High blood pressure, which can cause heart, brain, and kidney damage, now can be controlled in most instances. Stroke is no longer hopeless, and thousands of victims are now being rehabilitated and returned to active lives.

"Most cases of rheumatic fever can be prevented. In the past decade, remarkable progress has been made in correcting congenital heart defects through surgery," Fraser said.

"Despite this progress," the campaign chairman added, "the heart and blood vessel diseases continue to be the nation's Number One killer, claiming the lives of about one million in the U. S. alone each year." "Confronted with this fact," he went on, "we must expand our efforts in the fight against these diseases. I ask every resident of the community to support this vital fight against the heart diseases by giving more generously than ever before to the Heart Fund."

Rising College Tuition Worries Most Educators

NEW YORK (AP) — The rising cost of higher education has led to steep increases in college tuition charges across America, a nationwide survey shows. In extreme cases, fees have more than doubled within five years.

Some state schools have been driven recently to charging tuition for the first time.

In California, a row which developed when Gov. Ronald Reagan proposed tuition fees for resident students resulted in the ouster of Clark Kerr as president of the University of California. Kerr had opposed both tuition and Reagan's proposal to cut the university's budget.

Many educators have expressed fear that mounting student charges will deprive children of low income families of a chance to attend college.

Don Stevens, a member of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees, said: "Tuition is wrong in public education. It discriminates against low income families and against girls."

"If there are a boy and a girl in the same family, the boy gets the nod. The brightest kids from low-income families don't go to college," Stevens said.

Taking note of mounting educational costs, Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine had this comment in his inaugural address on Jan. 5:

"Our long-range objective must be free education beyond high school for every Maine boy and girl who has the desire and talent to use this education. We will not achieve this objective during my administration."

A student point of view was voiced by Dan Allison, a member of the University of Oregon Student Senate:

"We believe that higher education should be available to all who wish to take advantage of it, and raising tuition does not move in this direction."

A pending proposal to raise tuition fees in 22 state-supported colleges in Texas by a total of $4 million during the next two years was denounced by U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough as "a tax on students" and "an anti-education measure."

But almost everywhere, the fees go up and up.

Tuition at the University of Minnesota costs resident students $375 a year, compared with $275.45 five years ago, and nonresidents $921, compared with $662.55.

Utah State University charges residents $282 against $180 in 1960, and nonresidents $639 against $285.

At Indiana's Purdue University the tuition for residents went from $240 to $330 in the past five years, and for nonresidents from $750 to $950.

In 10 years, resident student tuition at the University of South Carolina was gone from $200 to $440, and nonresident tuition from $370 to $990.

In the 1968-69 academic year, state residents paid $220 at the University of Wisconsin, nonresidents $600. This year the figures are $325 and $1,050.

The University of New Hampshire charged residents $380 five years ago, nonresidents $800. Now the charges are $480 and $1,125, and the fee for nonresidents goes up next September to $1,375.

Georgia's state-supported schools held fees at the 1962 level until this academic year, when there was an increase averaging 33 per cent. At Georgia Tech, resident students now pay $315 a year, nonresidents $1,005.

"The increases were made because it was necessary to get operating funds," explained Dr. Harry Downs, assistant vice chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

In Illinois, the proposed budget for higher education in 1967-68 is $600 million, up 40 per cent from the preceding biennium, and some college administrators regard tuition increases as inevitable. The University of Illinois charges resident students $270 a year, nonresidents $870, compared with $230 and $580 in 1961.

California's academic blowup came when Reagan, newly elected governor, proposed state educational budget cuts of about 10 per cent, with an offsetting tuition charge—first in history—on residents students. He suggested $400 a year at the University of California's nine campuses and $200 at the 18-campus California State colleges.

Nonresident students in California now pay $980 a year plus a $219 incidentals fee, compared with $500 and $120 five years ago.

Jesse M. Unruh, Democratic speaker of the State Assembly, protested:

"Tuition charged solely for the purpose of making up a budget cut must be considered a tax on education. Such a proposal demands the most thorough study we can make before it is enacted."

The California Federation of Teachers announced plans for a march on Sacramento, the capital, by 10,000 educators, students and parents on Feb. 11 to "resist Gov. Reagan's attack on public education."

Reagan denounced his critics as "hysterical" and said they might change their tune when they got a look at his forthcoming state budget.

New York, where 24 undergraduate schools had been tuition-free to resident students, adopted a uniform tuition schedule in 1963 which requires payment from almost all who attend state institutions of higher learning.

Resident undergraduates pay $400, nonresidents $600. Students at graduate schools, both resident and nonresident, pay $600. At medical, dental, law and other professional schools the charge is $800 for residents, $1,000 for nonresidents.

However, New York also has what it calls a "scholar incentive program," applying only to resident students, which is based on family net income. An undergraduate student from a family with taxable income of less than $1,800 pays nothing. If income is $1,800 to $7,500 the student pays $200 and the state reimburses the college for the other $200. If net income is more than $7,500 the student pays $300 and the state $100.

Increasing costs have hit private schools just as hard as those supported by the states, and tuition charges have risen accordingly.

In 1961-62 the tuition at Harvard was $1,520. It is $1,760 this year and in September it goes up to $2,000.

NEW YORK (AP)—Documentary is a broad television term used to describe just about every program that is neither fiction nor a sports event. The quality level of television documentaries is generally high even when the subject is difficult to demonstrate, like wars or philosophies.

"CBS Reports" Tuesday night, however, was built around a subject ideal for television. It showed the research and experimentation with drugs and chemicals that alter the mind.

There was a distraught, quivering woman in a severe mental breakdown. Then she was shown only a week later, after treatment with tranquilizers, composed and recovering fast. But, to balance that, there was another woman who heard voices, and who did not respond to the medication.

The emphasis was not so much on treatment of mental illness as on the use of chemicals.

Tuition at Yale is $1,950 compared with $1,550 five years ago, at Notre Dame $800 compared with $550, at Johns Hopkins $1,800, going up to $2,000 in September, compared with $1,450.

At Wellesley, a leading girls' school, tuition, room and board charges are lumped. The figure this year is $2,800 and in September it will be $3,100. Five years ago it was $2,500.

calls to improve normal minds—improving ability to think, learn and remember. This is an area into which scientists are just beginning to probe by learning how the brain actually works.

The search is on, but so far no chemical has been found, as narrator Charles Kuralt put it, to make "dumb ones smart."

Despite some painful scenes of highly disturbed patients in mental hospitals and of animals used in experiments, it was an enlightening, reassuring program.

Viewers of Wednesday night's "Stage 67" show on ABC, "David Frost's Night Out in London" may be surprised to see Frost in a monologue that, with very minor variations, was used last week by the British comedy team of Hendra and Ullett on NBC's Perry Como special.

The sketch, Nick Ullett explained, was written several years ago by Ian Lang, now a Glasgow lawyer, when they were all students at Cambridge. He said that the sketch, a satire on British Broadcasting Corp. newscasters, also had been used by assorted revues here and in England.

All networks will cover President Johnson's news conference Thursday afternoon on a live basis.

President Truman set up the White House's first and only horseshoe court. President Eisenhower's putting green still reminds visitors that he once practiced golf there.

PRIVILEGED INFORMATION

Q. Are doctors under oath not to reveal the patient's medical history to others?

A. The relationship of physician and patient is very much like that of confessor and priest. The communications are "privileged" and are not to be repeated. Under certain circumstances a physician may be required to reveal information about a patient by court order. He may also discuss cases with colleagues, but the identity of the patient is kept confidential unless the situation is of common knowledge or the giving out of information is in the best interest of the patient.

GOUT

Q. Does the drinking of wine cause gout?

A. Not according to most authorities. A review of the medical histories of 200 gout patients showed no connection between the disease and the drinking of wine. Gout is an hereditary disorder associated with increased blood levels of uric acid.

Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity brief and general and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians. Remember—the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

Mayor's Proclamation Opens Heart Month Campaign Here

The 1967 Heart Fund Campaign in Pickaway County opened today when Mayor Ben H. Gordon signed a proclamation declaring February as Heart Month.

The briefest proclamation within memory of City Hall workers was signed by Mayor Gordon. In designating February as Heart Month, it calls upon all citizens to support the Heart Fund with gifts and voluntary services. The mayor's declaration was 80 words long.

"Not too much elaboration is required when you're dealing with a complex of diseases responsible for about 54 per cent of all deaths in the nation," said Mayor Gordon. "Beyond this these afflict on the average one of nine citizens, and are a prime source of economic hardship."

The proclamation was signed in the presence of Dr. Manuel Sanguily, Pickaway County Heart Association president; Gordon Fraser, 1967 Heart Fund general chairman; and Terry Sloan, 1967 Heart Fund publicity chairman.

IN A SHORT address for the occasion, Fraser had this to say: "Great advances have been made against the heart and blood vessel diseases in the years since the Heart Association became a voluntary organization in 1948. The public's attitude of pessimism about heart disease has been reversed. Today we know that some forms of the heart and blood vessel diseases can be prevented, some cured and almost all helped with proper treatment after early diagnosis.

"Most heart attack victims recover from initial attacks. Of those who do, three out of four go back to work. High blood pressure, which can cause heart, brain, and kidney damage, now can be controlled in most instances. Stroke is no longer hopeless, and thousands of victims are now being rehabilitated and returned to active lives.

"Most cases of rheumatic fever can be prevented. In the past decade, remarkable progress has been made in correcting congenital heart defects through surgery," Fraser said.

"Despite this progress," the campaign chairman added, "the heart and blood vessel diseases continue to be the nation's Number One killer, claiming the lives of about one million in the U. S. alone each year." "Confronted with this fact," he went on, "we must expand our efforts in the fight against these diseases. I ask every resident of the community to support this vital fight against the heart diseases by giving more generously than ever before to the Heart Fund."

Rising College Tuition Worries Most Educators

NEW YORK (AP) — The rising cost of higher education has led to steep increases in college tuition charges across America, a nationwide survey shows. In extreme cases, fees have more than doubled within five years. Some state schools have been driven recently to charging tuition for the first time.

In California, a row which developed when Gov. Ronald Reagan proposed tuition fees for resident students resulted in the ouster of Clark Kerr as president of the University of California. Kerr had opposed both tuition and Reagan's proposal to cut the university's budget.

Many educators have expressed fear that mounting student charges will deprive children of low income families of a chance to attend college.

Don Stevens, a member of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees, said: "Tuition is wrong in public education. It discriminates against low income families and against girls."

"If there are a boy and a girl in the same family, the boy gets the nod. The brightest kids from low-income families don't go to college," Stevens said.

Taking note of mounting educational costs, Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine had this comment in his inaugural address on Jan. 5:

"Our long-range objective must be free education beyond high school for every Maine boy and girl who has the desire and talent to use this education. We will not achieve this objective during any administration."

A student point of view was voiced by Dan Allison, a member of the University of Oregon Student Senate:

"We believe that higher education should be available to all who wish to take advantage of it, and raising tuition does not move in this direction."

A pending proposal to raise tuition fees in 22 state-supported colleges in Texas by a total of $44 million during the next two years was denounced by U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough as "a tax on students" and "an anti-education measure."

But almost everywhere, the fees go up and up.

Tuition at the University of Minnesota costs resident students $375 a year, compared with $275.45 five years ago, and nonresidents $921, compared with $662.55.

Utah State University charges residents $282 against $180 in 1960, and nonresidents $639 against $285.

At Indiana's Purdue University the tuition for residents went from $240 to $330 in the past five years, and for nonresidents from $750 to $950.

In 10 years, resident student tuition at the University of South Carolina was gone from $200 to $440, and nonresident tuition from $370 to $990.

In the 1968-69 academic year, state residents paid $220 at the University of Wisconsin, nonresidents $600. This year the figures are $325 and $1,050.

The University of New Hampshire charged residents $380 five years ago, nonresidents $800. Now the charges are $480 and $1,125, and the fee for nonresidents goes up next September to $1,375.

Georgia's state-supported schools held fees at the 1962 level until this academic year, when there was an increase averaging 33 per cent. At Georgia Tech, resident students now pay $315 a year, nonresidents $1,005.

"The increases were made because it was necessary to get operating funds," explained Dr. Harry Downs, assistant vice chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

In Illinois, the proposed budget for higher education in 1967-68 is $600 million, up 40 per cent from the preceding biennium, and some college administrations regard tuition increases as inevitable. The University of Illinois charges resident students $270 a year, nonresidents $870, compared with $230 and $580 in 1961.

California's academic blowup came when Reagan, newly elected governor, proposed state educational budget cuts of about 10 per cent, with an offsetting tuition charge—first in history—on residents students. He suggested $400 a year at the University of California's nine campuses and $200 at the 18-campus California State colleges.

Nonresident students in California now pay $980 a year plus a $219 incidentals fee, compared with $500 and $120 five years ago.

Jesse M. Unruh, Democratic speaker of the State Assembly, protested:

"Tuition charged solely for the purpose of making up a budget cut must be considered a tax on education. Such a proposal demands the most thorough study we can make before it is enacted."

The California Federation of Teachers announced plans for a march on Sacramento, the capital, by 10,000 educators, students and parents on Feb. 11 to "resist Gov. Reagan's attack on public education."

Reagan denounced his critics as "hysterical" and said they might change their tune when they got a look at his forthcoming state budget.

New York, where 24 undergraduate schools had been tuition-free to resident students, adopted a uniform tuition schedule in 1963 which requires payment from almost all who attend state institutions of higher learning.

Resident undergraduates pay $400, nonresidents $600. Students at graduate schools, both resident and nonresident, pay $600. At medical, dental, law and other professional schools the charge is $800 for residents, $1,000 for nonresidents.

However, New York also has what it calls a "scholar incentive program," applying only to resident students, which is based on family net income. An undergraduate student from a family with taxable income of less than $1,800 pays nothing. If income is $1,800 to $7,500 the student pays $200 and the state reimburses the college for the other $200. If net income is more than $7,500 the student pays $300 and the state $100.

Warriors Pad Lead in West; Knicks Advance to Third

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeff Mullins, who spent two years on the bench cooling his heels, is now giving San Francisco a hot foot. The Warriors responded again Tuesday night.

The former hotshot from Duke sparked the Warriors to a 108-106 victory over the Detroit Pistons as he came off the bench and scored 21 points, including the game's last three points in the final eight seconds. San Francisco's triumph in the first game of a National Basketball Association double-header at Madison Square Garden extended the Warriors' runaway lead in the Western Division to 10 games over St. Louis.

The Hawks lost the nightcap to New York 139-120 as the Knicks broke a five-game losing streak and retook third place from Cincinnati in the East.

Mullins, who was St. Louis' No. 1 draft choice three years ago, gave his former mates an eye full in his new fireman's role with the Warriors.

His seven points and six assists brought San Francisco back from a 21-11 deficit to a 60-53 halftime lead.

He had 11 more points as the game saw-sawed through the last half. Then, with Detroit leading 106-105 with eight seconds remaining, Paul Neumann stole the ball on a Detroit throw-in from out of bounds and poked it to Mullins, who drove in untouched for the winner. Mullins added a free throw in the last second.

After Mullins left the floor Tuesday night, the only heat generated was by the Knicks. Trailing 102-101, Dick Barnett and Willis Reed began to sizzle. Barnett hit three quick bas-

How Much Advantage Is Home Court?

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — How much advantage is the home floor in a college basketball game?

Tennessee Coach Ray Mears should qualify as an expert on the subject. His team has won 19 consecutive games on its home court.

The streak dates back to a 53-50 loss to Vanderbilt in early December, 1965, and includes perhaps the biggest upset of the 1965-66 season — a 69-62 victory over Kentucky.

Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcats came to town last year boasting a 25-game winning streak and ranked No. 1 in the country.

"I don't really know how you evaluate the home floor advantage," said Mears, who was a little surprised when told his Volunteers had won 19 straight in the Tennessee fieldhouse over the past two seasons.

"There are a lot of factors involved," Mears added. "You get used to playing on your home court. You get used to the lighting."

"The players are accustomed to their living conditions. They sleep in their own beds and consequently get more rest than they do on the road."

"And, of course, they react to the home crowd. The cheers of the students naturally influence your players to try harder."

"There have been times, though, when I've seen crowd behavior shake up the visiting team and cause it to play better."

Mears said as a general rule most coaches rate the home floor advantage at between 8-12 points.

kets and Reed five points for a 117-106 spread. Barnett, who finished with 28 points, notched two more baskets, and Reed, who totaled 30 points, added four field goals to turn the game into a rout.

Rookie Lou Hudson had 31 for St. Louis and Bill Bridges 26. No other games were played.

Junior High, Frosh Split At Sherman

The Circleville Freshman and Junior High basketball teams split at Lancaster General Sherman Tuesday.

The Junior High lost, 38-32, after leading by as many as ten points in the third quarter, and the Freshmen won, 43-41, coming from six points behind in the last period.

For the Junior High Tigers, Don Valentine turned in an outstanding game, leading both teams in scoring and rebounding. He hit seven field goals and two foul shots for a total of 16.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 10-8 with the visitors leading. Then the little Tigers forged ahead in the second period to lead, 19-12. Early in the third quarter, the Red and Black built their lead to ten points. By the end of the period the Sherman quintet had shaved the lead to four. In the final minute of play the hosts scored seven points to gain the win.

THE TIGER Frosh had a balanced scoring effort with Dick Walters scoring 13, Ty Ankrom nine, Mark Lutz eight, Charlie Jackson seven and Mike Yates six.

The frosh led, 13-4, at the end of the initial period. But Ty Ankrom picked up his third personal foul just after the second quarter started, and spent the remainder of the half on the bench. With Ankrom out, Lancaster scored 20 points and took a 24-16 halftime lead.

The Circleville ninth graders still trailed, 35-29, as the fourth quarter started.

A 14 point effort combined with a good defensive performance boosted the Tigers to a 6-2 record for the season.

Next action for both teams is Feb. 9. The Frosh host Chillicothe Mount Logan and the junior high travels to Ashville.

Logan Elm Faces Westfall, Teays Valley This Week

Logan Elm has a big basketball weekend on the schedule.

On Friday, the Braves travel to Westfall for a Scioto Valley Conference game, and on Saturday they are at Teays Valley for an annual cage tilt with the Vikings.

Westfall has only the Friday game with the Braves scheduled this weekend. Teays Valley travels to Whitehall for a Metropolitan League game on Friday.

When the county schools meet, records can usually be tossed away.

BUT JUST for comparison, the records prove interesting if not indicative of the outcome of the games.

Logan Elm and Westfall have already met in a previous contest this year. The Braves won, 57-50, on their home court. They will not have the home-floor advantage this time around.

Recovery Suffers Season's 1st Loss

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Franklin-Monroe of Darke County whipped Fort Recovery 78-68 Tuesday night in a battle of unbeaten and staked a bid for the losers' No. 1 spot in The Associated Press' Ohio Class A, high school basketball ratings.

Franklin-Monroe — rated No. 1 by the Dayton Journal Herald but only tied for 15th in the statewide poll — ran its record to 15-0 while brightening things for Darke County, which could use it in view of the widely publicized closing of Versailles schools.

Recovery of Mercer County, which had won 16 straight, led 19-15 at the quarter and 35-34 at the half in the game specially scheduled with Ohio High School Athletic Association approval on a neutral court here.

Then the tide turned and F-M prevailed behind 35 points by 5-foot-8 Irv Besecker. Fort Recovery's Tom Bryan, leading scorer in the Miami Valley area, bagged 32.

Meanwhile, across the state, unranked River Local (12-3) spilled Class A's sixth-ranked squad, Woodsfield, 84-81.

Milwaukee Withdraws Suit against Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors Tuesday voted to drop the county's federal antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League, apparently ending legal attempts to gain a major league franchise for Milwaukee.

Logan Elm has won 11 games and lost three. Westfall has won five and lost 10.

The Braves are averaging 63 points per game, while limiting opponents to 55 points per tilt.

The Mustangs have a better defensive showing, holding foes to an average of about 50 points in spite of the fact they have lost two-thirds of the games they have played.

But their scoring threat is not too potent. They have been averaging 49 points.

PACING the Logan Elm attack is Russ Merrin, slender 6-3 brother of the coach of the Braves, Keith Merrin. Shooting at a better than 50 per cent clip from the field, Merrin is averaging 21.8 points per game. He is the leading scorer of the three Pickaway County Schools.

He gets good support from his teammates. Jim Moorehead, a senior forward, is averaging 12.4 points per game. He has a total of 173 points this season.

Other starters for the Braves are Ken Palmer, Steve Fouch and Tom Smith, all capable of scoring in double figures.

With Greg Fraunfelter and Dale Jenne on the bench, the Braves have good reserve strength. Fraunfelter is a guard while Jenne can fill in at either guard or forward.

The leading scorer for Westfall is Andy Hamman, who has a 14.9 point per game average. He is a junior guard. Charlie Palmer, junior forward, is averaging 10.8 points per game for the Mustangs.

Sophomores starting for Westfall include Ed Cornwell and Tom Lightie. Delbert Haney is the lone senior squad on the guard.

WESTFALL is the only team that has ever beaten Logan Elm three times in one season. The Mustangs turned the trick last year, stopping the Braves twice in regular season play and once in the tournament.

Teays Valley, if the Vikings are to remain in contention for a share of the Metropolitan League title, must win at Whitehall Friday.

Reynoldsburg, with only the Vikings remaining on their schedule, are assured of at least a Metro League deadlock.

Pacing the Vikings attack is big Rod Teets, the 6-5 pivot man.

He is averaging 19.8 points per game, nearly twice as many as any other player on the team. In addition to leading the Viking attack, he is the top rebounder in the Metro League.

Teays Valley is averaging 64 points per game while opponents of the Vikings have been hitting the nets at a rate of 54 per outting.

THE VIKINGS have a 9-4 record, playing Class AA competition. Losses have been by two points to Columbus North by four points to Columbus West, by seven points to Reynoldsburg and by 21 points to powerful Bishop Hartley.

Teays Valley has never lost to Logan Elm.

Capacity plus crowds are expected at Westfall Friday and at Teays Valley Saturday.

Warriors Pad Lead in West; Knicks Advance to Third

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeff Mullins, who spent two years on the bench cooling his heels, is now giving San Francisco a hot foot. The Warriors responded again Tuesday night.

The former hotshot from Duke sparked the Warriors to a 108-106 victory over the Detroit Pistons as he came off the bench and scored 21 points, including the game's last three points in the final eight seconds.

San Francisco's triumph in the first game of a National Basketball Association double-header at Madison Square Garden extended the Warriors' runaway lead in the Western Division to 10 games over St. Louis.

The Hawks lost the nightcap to New York 139-120 as the Knicks broke a five-game losing streak and retook third place from Cincinnati in the East.

Mullins, who was St. Louis' No. 1 draft choice three years ago, gave his former mates an eyeeful in his new fireman's role with the Warriors.

His seven points and six assists brought San Francisco back from a 21-11 deficit to a 60-53 halftime lead.

He had 11 more points as the game see-sawed through the last half. Then, with Detroit leading 106-105 with eight seconds remaining, Paul Neumann stole the ball on a Detroit throw-in from out of bounds and poked it to Mullins, who drove in untouched for the winner. Mullins added a free throw in the last second.

After Mullins left the floor Tuesday night, the only heat generated was by the Knicks. Trailing 102-101, Dick Barnett and Willis Reed began to sizzle.

Barnett hit three quick baskets and Reed five points for a 117-106 spread. Barnett, who finished with 28 points, notched two more baskets, and Reed, who totaled 30 points, added four field goals to turn the game into a rout.

Rookie Lou Hudson had 31 for St. Louis and Bill Bridges 26. No other games were played.

Junior High, Frosh Split At Sherman

The Circleville Freshman and Junior High basketball teams split at Lancaster General Sherman Tuesday.

The Junior High lost, 38-32, after leading by as many as ten points in the third quarter, and the Freshmen won, 43-41, coming from six points behind in the last period.

For the Junior High Tigers, Don Valentine turned in an outstanding game, leading both teams in scoring and rebounding. He hit seven field goals and two foul shots for a total of 16.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 10-8 with the visitors leading. Then the little Tigers forged ahead in the second period to lead, 19-12. Early in the third quarter, the Red and Black built their lead to ten points. By the end of the period the Sherman quintet had shaved the lead to four. In the final minute of play the hosts scored seven points to gain the win.

THE TIGER Frosh had a balanced scoring effort with Dick Walters scoring 13, Ty Ankrom nine, Mark Lutz eight, Charlie Jackson seven and Mike Yates six.

The frosh led, 13-4, at the end of the initial period. But Ty Ankrom picked up his third personal foul just after the second quarter started, and spent the remainder of the half on the bench. With Ankrom out, Lancaster scored 20 points and took a 24-16 halftime lead.

The Circleville ninth graders still trailed, 35-29, as the fourth quarter started.

A 14 point effort combined with a good defensive performance boosted the Tigers to a 6-2 record for the season.

Next action for both teams is Feb. 9. The Frosh host Chillicothe Mount Logan and the Junior high travels to Ashville.

Logan Elm Faces Westfall, Teays Valley This Week

Logan Elm has a big basketball weekend on the schedule.

On Friday, the Braves travel to Westfall for a Scioto Valley Conference game, and on Saturday they are at Teays Valley for an annual cage tilt with the Vikings.

Westfall has only the Friday game with the Braves scheduled this weekend. Teays Valley travels to Whitehall for a Metropolitan League game on Friday.

When the county schools meet, records can usually be tossed away.

BUT JUST for comparison, the records prove interesting if not indicative of the outcome of the games.

Logan Elm and Westfall have already met in a previous contest this year. The Braves won, 57 - 50, on their home court. They will not have the home - floor advantage this time around.

Recovery Suffers Season's 1st Loss

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Franklin-Monroe of Darke County whipped Fort Recovery 78-68 Tuesday night in a battle of unbeaten and staked a bid for the losers' No. 1 spot in The Associated Press' Ohio Class A, high school basketball ratings.

Franklin-Monroe — rated No. 1 by the Dayton Journal Herald but only tied for 15th in the statewide poll—ran its record to 15-0 while brightening things for Darke County, which could use it in view of the widely publicized closing of Versailles schools.

Recovery of Mercer County, which had won 16 straight, led 19-15 at the quarter and 35-34 at the half in the game specially scheduled with Ohio High School Athletic Association approval on a neutral court here.

Then the tide turned and F-M prevailed behind 35 points by 5-foot-8 Irv Besecker. Fort Recovery's Tom Bryan, leading scorer in the Miami Valley area, bagged 32.

Meanwhile, across the state, unranked River Local (12-3) spilled Class A's sixth-ranked squad, Woodsfield, 84-81.

Milwaukee Withdraws Suit against Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors Tuesday voted to drop the county's federal antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League, apparently ending legal attempts to gain a major league franchise for Milwaukee.

Logan Elm has won 11 games and lost three. Westfall has won five and lost 10.

The Braves are averaging 63 points per game, while limiting opponents to 55 points per tilt.

The Mustangs have a better defensive showing, holding foes to an average of about 50 points in spite of the fact they have lost two - thirds of the games they have played.

But their scoring threat is not too potent. They have been averaging 49 points.

PACING the Logan Elm attack is Russ Merrin, slender 6-3 brother of the coach of the Braves, Keith Merrin. Shooting at a better than 50 per cent clip from the field, Merrin is averaging 21.8 points per game. He is the leading scorer of the three Pickaway County Schools.

He gets good support from his teammates. Jim Moorehead, a senior forward, is averaging 12.4 points per game. He has a total of 173 points this season.

Other starters for the Braves are Ken Palmer, Steve Fouch and Tom Smith, all capable of scoring in double figures.

With Greg Fraunfelter and Dale Jenne on the bench, the Braves have good reserve strength. Fraunfelter is a guard while Jenne can fill in at either guard or forward.

The leading scorer for Westfall is Andy Hamman, who has a 14.9 point per game average. He is a junior guard. Charlie Palmer, junior forward, is averaging 10.8 points per game for the Mustangs.

Sophomores starting for Westfall include Ed Cornwell and Tom Lightie. Delbert Haney is the lone senior squad on the guard.

WESTFALL is the only team that has ever beaten Logan Elm three times in one season. The Mustangs turned the trick last year, stopping the Braves twice in regular season play and once in the tournament.

by seven points to Reynoldsburg and by 21 points to powerful Bishop Hartley.

College Basketball Roundup TCU Dethroned; Top 10 Idle

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The honeymoon apparently is over for Texas Christian in the Southwest Conference.

The Horned Frogs from Fort Worth had been the surprise leader in the SWC college basketball race at 4-0 despite an over-all 6-8 record.

That is until Tuesday night at Dallas. Southern Methodist edged out an 89-88 home court victory and topped TCU out of first place. The Mustangs, now 12-4 and the preseason choice to win the SWC, took over the No. 1 spot themselves with 5-1 league mark to TCU's 4-1.

Lynn Phillips, with 25 points, and several vital steals by Charley Beasley, paced SMU. The score was tied at 83-83 with 1:59 left on the clock before SMU took the lead for good on Denny Holman's free throw. Phillips added two more free throws and Bob Voight's basket made it 88-83 before TCU cut it to 88-86.

Phillips then sank what proved to be the winning point from the foul line with five seconds left. That made Mickey McCarty's last second basket for the Frogs meaningless.

Army won its sixth straight, defeating Fordham 61-59 in New York on two free throws by John Mikula after time had run out.

Once-beaten Boston College made it five in a row and 11-1 over-all with a 90-75 victory over Seton Hall at South Orange, N.J. despite 34 points by the losers' Bill Somerset.

In other road triumphs, St. Peters of New Jersey won its eighth straight and upped its season mark to 13-1 by defeating Hofstra 91-87. Memphis State beat Jacksonville 63-58 in overtime. Fairfield downed Fairleigh Dickinson 75-67 and sixth-ranked Houston overwhelmed Nevada Southern 103-83. Houston was the only team in the Associated Press Top Ten to see action.

Iowa State, with Don Smith scoring 27 points and grabbing 16 rebounds, handed Missouri its 12th straight defeat 72-58 at Ames. Paul Long's 36 points paced Wake Forest over Clemson at Winston-Salem 90-80 to put the Deacons in a tie with Duke for second place in Atlantic Coast Conference.

In other home court triumphs, Temple drubbed Gettysburg 109-73, Wichita downed Chicago Loyola 90-82. Rice beat Arkansas 60-56, Baylor edged Texas 88-86, North Texas routed Hawaii 89-64 and Maine whipped Bates 105-92.

Elvin Hayes threw in 42 points for Houston against Nevada Southern as the Cougars rebounded after their 12-game winning streak was ended by Washington last week. Elbert Miller collected 38 for Nevada Southern.

CUP OF JOY OVERFLOWETH—Winter-time banquet circle for baseball's biggies continues with award presentations here and there. This one was at the Baseball Writers Assoc. dinner in Houston where these four were honored. From left are Dizzy Dean, the sportscaster who won the "Tris Speaker" award; Frank Robinson of the Orioles who was the "Player of the Year"; Gaylord Perry of the Glants, "Pitcher of the Year," and Joe Torre of the Braves, the "Eddie Dyer" award.

'Fastest Man' Dead at 57

DETROIT (AP) — When little Eddie Tolan's stubby legs carried him to double gold medal upset victories in the 1932 Olympics, he became the first Negro to be hailed as the fastest man alive.

Tolan, who electrified the track world with those victories, died Tuesday from an apparent heart attack. He was 57.

Tolan suffered complete kidney failure two years ago. He was undergoing weekly treatments at a Detroit hospital when he was stricken, doctors said.

His sister, Mrs. June Brown of Detroit, said Tolan, a bachelor, had gone to the hospital after teaching his physical education class at a Detroit elementary school.

Only 5-foot-4, Tolan was dubbed the Midnight Express when he ran track at the University of Michigan. He was graduated in 1931.

Tolan's success in the Big Ten Conference, where he set world marks of 9.5 seconds in the 100-yard dash and 10.4 in the 100-meter dash, prompted him to try out for the U.S. Olympic team in 1932.

He made the team, and he won the 100 and 200-meter dash events over favorites Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette and George Simpson of Ohio State.

His 10.3 clocking in the 100 tied an Olympic record as he beat Metcalfe in a photo finish. The record stood until the 1960 Games at Melbourne.

Two days later, Tolan stifled critics by beating Metcalfe and Simpson again in the 200 with a record 21.2. Jesse Owens broke his record in the 1936 Games.

Tolan was named to the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame in 1958 and is listed as one of the University of Michigan's all-time great athletes.

Tolan's creed was simple: Start fast, run easily, stay in your lane and finish strong.

Cleveland Stadium Issue Still Hanging

CLEVELAND (AP) — Real estate developer Edward J. DeBartolo says he is willing to donate 100 acres of land on an expressway between Akron and Cleveland as a site for a new stadium for the Cleveland Indians.

DeBartolo said Tuesday the location about 15 miles from downtown Cleveland would be a good one because it is situated between the Ohio Turnpike and Ohio 82 and is intersected by I-271 and Ohio 8.

DeBartolo made his offer in talking to a newspaper. He said the land in question is in the area referred to by Macedonia Mayor William F. Long, who invited the Indians Board Chairman Vernon B. Stouffer last fall to build a new stadium there. Meanwhile, Cleveland Mayor Ralph S. Locher set a meeting at city hall with Stouffer to clarify the situation regarding Cleveland Municipal Stadium.

Stouffer was quoted in published reports earlier this week as saying the Indians were considering construction of a modern, new stadium.

That story caused an uproar at city hall, where plans are under way for a multi-million-dollar program of improvements at Municipal Stadium. Stouffer later denied that the Indians were thinking about building a new home.

Cornell's Ron Gervase set an Ivy League record for yardage gained in pass catching last season. He caught 30 passes for 478 yards.

Mantle Sets Personal Goals

Signs for $100,000; Season May Be Last

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle will give first base a whirl at $100,000 a year in a desperate attempt to revive the fortunes of the New York Yankees.

This probably will be the last go-round for Mickey who is 35 and soon will be starting his 17th year as a Yankee. Unless the switch brings new life to Mickey's battered legs and knees, he probably will hang it up after the season.

Mantle would like to hit 500 home runs (he has 496). He would like to play more games than any Yankee (he has 51 to go to reach Lou Gehrig's mark of 2,164). He also would like to play in another World Series, a happening that would call for a dramatic last-to-first flip-flop by the Yanks.

Mantle showed up at Yankee Stadium Tuesday with manager Ralph Houk to sign his fifth consecutive $100,000 contract. He admitted this probably would be his last.

"If I should have a real good year and we do good, I think it (moving to first base) could add to my career," he said. "I'll just have to wait and see how it turns out before we talk about the future."

Mickey never has played first base, although he has a passing acquaintance with ground balls from his early days as a shortstop. He expects to go down to camp at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. about Feb. 15 to get ready for the big switch.

Mantle is dubious about the shift but is willing to try. Houk thinks the shift from the outfield where Mickey has to make long runs will prove less strain on Mantle's legs. He admits he doesn't know how the legs will react to the quick stops and starts of first base play.

Big 3 Favored In Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A legion of golfers — 128 professionals and 384 flailing amateurs — begin assault on five courses today in the five-day, 90-hole Bob Hope Desert Classic marathon.

Incentive for the professionals is a Hope chest of $110,000. The money, according to the PGA, is listed as unofficial but as 1965 winner Bill Casper observed: "It'll spend."

The PGA lists tournaments as unofficial when professionals play with amateurs or the field is limited by invitation.

Leading what is probably the bulkier field in golf is Arnold Palmer, winner by five strokes last Sunday in the $100,000 Los Angeles Open. Arnie played well in Los Angeles, finishing 15 under par for the 72 holes and is installed here as the prerace favorite.

Palmer won this tournament in 1960 and 1962, but lost to Doug Sanders last year in a playoff.

Casper, the U.S. Open titlist, and Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, who won the Bing Crosby party two weeks ago, are on hand to complete golf's Big Three in action. Gary Player doesn't plan to play in U.S. tournaments until later in the tour.

For the first four rounds of the Classic, pros are teamed with threesomes of amateurs. Each day, the professional plays one of four desert courses — Eldorado, Indian Wells, Bermuda Dunes and LaQuinta — with a new set of amateurs.

Sunday, the final day of the tourney, the amateurs drop out, and the pros play LaQuinta to decide the money.

Joining Palmer, Casper and Nicklaus, who won here in 1963, are other former champions Bill Maxwell, 1961, and Tommy Jacobs, who bested Jimmy Demaret in a 1964 playoff.

Other celebrity linksmen to get in their links are Andy Williams, Vic Damone, Pat Boone, Ray Bolger, Don Adams, Phil Harris, Joey Bishop and Desi Arnaz.
